Whitby Dunlops, a team that failed to get out of their own group last year is now talking of jumping from Senior, "B" to Senior "A" company. In my humble opinion there are many factors to be considered before any move in that direction is made. In the first place, the Whitby Arena is constructed on much of the same style as the rink in Stouffville and if the support is going to be as good as the Whitby Management thinks it will be; then the arena isn't adequate to handle the crowds. If a mere 1,200 or 1,500 fans can be counted on to attend the sched- co-op medical services. Hostesuled games then I don't see how a Senior "A" hockey club can hope to operate from the County Town. Coach Wren Blair has gained considerable prominence in his recent boast that the Dunlops tied Kitchener in a pre-season game, but Mr. Blair should remember that the visitors were only playing an exhibition game and it's not likely that they were putting the same effort into it as would be the case in a scheduled contest. With Senior, Junior and Intermediate teams folding up all over the country, Whitby's efforts to move up into better hockey, longer trips, and increased expense, is indeed a change. At the present time, the Dunlops have had little or no opposition with their rivals in the Eastern Senior "B" circuit, but they are attracting upwards of 1,000 fans per game so why should they worry.

A FIGHT AT THE FINISH

A BIG JUMP

The fans who departed from the arena on Tuesday night two minutes before before the completion of the game missed one of the best fights of the season. Ordinarily we are not in favor of hockey brawls but we, and I believe I speak for 90 percent of all hockey spectators, don't mind seeing a good fight where players resort only to their hands and leave their sticks on the ice. That was the type of fight that broke out at the conclusion of the Clipper-Brampton game. Ronnie Bell and Ken Crawford were Stouffville's main participants and they handled. themselves very well. Ronnie Bell has always been noted for his pugilistic ability and when given a free hand he can out-box most comers in his class. Crawford, on the other hand is rather a mild-mannered type of fellow but this season he has decided not to give an inch to anyone, either big or small. In the fisticuffs, Stouffville appeared to have a decided edge. Both Bell and Crawford pinned their respective rivals for the ten count and even held their own when their sweaters were pulled over their heads. After the players had gathered up their gloves and sticks and tempers returned to normal, two major penalties were handed out to each club. With only thirty seconds left in the game, the players were sent to the dressing rooms for early showers. No real damage was done however. Out of the melee we don't believe there was as much as a scratch on either of the adversaries. This is the second or third time this year that a brawl has broken out in the dying minutes of a game. Win or lose, no one can say that the Clippers aren't a "fighting" hockey club.
