Prayers By Phone Become More Popular

Telephone lines in dozens of U.S. cities are humming with religious messages—night and day. The idea of communicating faith by phone has been spreading like the wind. In several cities, circuits have been jammed and knocked out of commission temporarily by the flood of callers. "We cut our messages from one minute to 30 seconds to give more people a chance to hear them," said Rev. J. Heristry, Prayer Phone, Diala-Devotional, Prayer of the Day, and Inspiration, Please. Dizzying Response

The Trinity Temple Methodist Church, Louisville, Ky., recently began its service with one machine, quickly had to put in seven others to take the calls — up to 1,000 an hour.

"We're dizzy from the overwhelming response," said Rev. Joseph L. Leggett pastor. "A pioneer of the plan was Los Angeles' Christ Memorial Church, whose "Dialthrough" was begun Sept. 15, 1952.

Says Rev. Herbert Schneider, pastor: "It's a means of helping people refocus on real values in the midst of everyday problems."

"There seems to be a great hunger among people for good thoughts," said F. W. Stahl, who records the Baltimore-Y-M-C-A's "Inspiration" messages heard by an average of about 5,000 people each day.

Some of the recorded messages—a minute or half minute in length—include Scripture verses or religious quotations, with brief commentaries. Others use only a prayer, composed so as to have wide application.

"There are so many people who would like someone to pray with them in times of stress or great need, but who would hesitate to ask for that help," said Emma H. Conboy, secretary of First Presbyterian Church, Orlando, Fla.

Rev. Bruce Bowen of the Hitchcock Memorial Presbyterian Church, Scarsdale, N. Y., said some concern was felt at first that the church's "Prayer Phone" might be considered "too mechanical and impersonal."

"But we've found it can be a very meaningful part of a person's religious life to have prayers expressed for them and with them," he said. "It's no more impersonal than a sermon, when a minister speaks directly to many in the congregation whom he does not know."

Equipment used is the same as that which provides automatic time or weather information. By turning a knob to one position, a message can be recorded, then to another position for automatic answering.

The messages are changed daily, or twice daily. The machines are about the size of a portable typewriter. Churches rent them from local utility systems for about $12 a month each.

Pioneered System

The real forerunner of the all-inspirational message systems was the "Telephone Ministry" begun in New York 16 years ago by the late Episcopal minister J. J. D. (Daddy) Hall, known as "Bishop of Wall St." because of his noontime sermons in Manhattan's financial district.

This telephone service, however, was conducted in person by a crew of operators. It still is being carried on at St. Paul's House here, under direction of an Episcopal layman, Creighton Dunlap—both by operators and records.

"We are scattering seeds like a farmer," Dunlap said. "We don't always see the harvest, but we know God's word will not return void."

A note of criticism of the record-prayer system was sounded by the Washington Daily News. It said: "This way, you haven't got to pray yourself, just grab the telephone and dial . . . prefabricated prayer." But the Christian Herald magazine snapped back: "Prefabricated prayer has always been available in the Bible as well as in the church. What causes it to become more than that is the extent to which the hearer makes it his own."

52-Mile Walk to Court

Edward Fairman, 53, of Uxbridge, was summoned to appear in Whitby Police Court, and the taxi fare being on the steep side, he walked.

He rose at 3:30 in the morning and started out on the long hike at 5:30. Mr. Fairman's home is situated about a mile from Uxbridge town, and about four miles from Highway 12.

"The first part of the walk was the worst," he said, "as for the five miles to the Highway, it was so dark, and the snow was so thick that I could hardly see." Mr. Fairman arrived in Whitby at 9:30 and went to the County building.

Court reporter Margaret Reeves, noticing Mr. Fairman

sitting in the courtroom, and knowing that court was not sitting that day, asked why he was there. He told her that he was appearing in answer to a summons on an income tax charge. Miss Reeves checked on the summons, and discovered that the charge had been dropped.

Mr. Fairman, quite surprised, thanked Miss Reeves and started walking back to Uxbridge.

Arriving home, after walking a total of 52 miles, Mr. Fairman chopped his firewood for the night, cooked and ate his dinner (the first he had eaten since he started his jaunt) and took a stroll down town before going to bed.

Mrs. Young gave a short talk following her report, on three boats — representing three kinds of Christians: Rainboat, which has to be pushed; Sailboat, blown by the wind; and Steamboat, which makes up its mind first and then goes there. The Devotional was conducted by Mrs. G. Ogden, after the singing of hymn 375. She spoke on the Call to the Vocation of the Church. The topic — Festival of Son and Stofy — was given by Mrs. F. If ever you have dined at Ottawa's famous Chateau Laurier, you'll agree . . . Chef Freitag knows whereof he cooks! In all his tempting dishes, he uses only butter. No substitute could possibly give the delicate flavour, the smooth, golden richness of fresh creamery butter.

Taste Chef Freitag's own recipe for BUTTER MEUNIÈRE a sauce for sauteed fish, steaks or chops

When fish or meat is ready to serve, squeeze the juice of a quartered lemon over it. Sprinkle with fresh chopped parsley or chives. In a frying pan, brown 2 ounces of butter for each person. Pour over fish or meat.

it's always better with Butter!

As every housewife knows, for good eating and good living, you just can't beat butter. From the simplest hot biscuits to the most elegant layer cake, everything you make tastes so much better with butter.
