This Wintry Spring

This has been one of the wintriest springtimes in a good many years. One can't help wondering what it means. Is it just a perverse downward squiggle on the long-range temperature chart? It would have to be that if those scientists are right who say we are in a slow warming period that will eventually give this continent a much milder climate.

In support of this, of course, they always cite the receding of Greenland's great glacial cap which has at last exposed farmlands covered by ice for many centuries.

Naturally, some scientists think the thing is the other way around - that the mild weather of recent years was the irregular stuff and this winter and spring what we should normally expect.

You can take whichever set of experts you wish to believe. We like to go along with the mild-trending boys. But if next spring isn't better than this one, we're going to ask our experts to run up to Greenland to see if those ancient farms are still exposed.

Five-Year Census Deemed Necessary

On June 1st. 16,000 Canadian men and women across Canada will begin taking the first nation-wide quinquennial census. Previously the counting of heads was done every 10 years, although Manitoba has been conducting a midway census since 1886 and Saskatchewan and Alberta have been doing it since 1906.

This year's census won't be as comprehensive as the decennial census and, therefore, less expensive. The cost is estimated to be $3,000,000 under the $8,-000,000 figure of five years ago. It figures out to approximately 35 cents for each man, woman and child. Taking of the census is almost as old as the hills, but the facts obtained weren't always as confidential as is the case in Canada. Marco Polo tells us that in one place he visited every householder was compelled to write over his door the names of all in his household and the number of horses he had.

In the 1790 census in the United States, 600 officials knocked on doors, asked five questions of whoever answered, then tacked their lists on the walls of local taverns. People who had been skipped could read all about their neighbors and, if they were so minded, add their own names and comment.

In Canada, the answers given by individuals to census questions are absolutely confidential. Every employee of the census is bound by a special oath and panalty against divulging any fact whatsoever that may have been learned through the census. The bureau of statistics is forbidden to issue any statement that would directly or indirectly reveal information about a particular person or concern.

But that is not all. - Census information obtained from or about you may not be used for taxation or military purposes. It is expressly forbidden by law to use data to tax a person or to call him for military service.

.The midway census is deemed necessary to keep certain essential statistics more up-to-date. For example, some provinces are now making per capita grants to municipalities to help them solve financial problems. Head counting is necessary at least every five years if these funds are to be distributed in a fair and equitable manner.

Effort and Success

It will come as an amusing surprise to many when they earn that the first big departmental stores had elevators which carried customers up but left them to walk down. And it was several years before store-owners reversed the ruling. It must have been hard on fat people; although good for them. ...

A FAMOUS BRITISH EDITOR, Mr. Sidney Dark, has this to say about effort and success: "There is no success without effort. There is no attainment without preparation. Nothing of any real value can be easily picked up. Before the craftsman can use his hands efficiently he must submit to the discipline of a long apprenticement. However splendid his dreams, no musician can write a symphony until he learns the laws of harmony. The untrained may be ambitious, brave and eager, but they cannot win battles. .THERE IS A CHINESE PROVERS: "It is easy to open a shop but it is hard to keep it open." At the present time standards of living are high; there are probably more opportunities for advancement than at any time in our history. Perhaps things come too easily and we become soft. There are so many elevators that the idea of being carried along prevails everywhere. We heard of a business executive who applied for a secretary. He asked one applicant what kind of a job he wanted. The youth said: "I want a job where the hours are not long and the pay is good." The boss said: "There is only one job like that around here and I don't intend to resign." All the same he probably was a hard-working man who gave all he had.

WHEN THE PILGRIM FATHERS were asked to account for their success they said: "It was not with us as with some other men whom small things discourage." In an article entitled: "Books Written Under Difficulties," the author said: "the plain truth is that the greatest literature of the world has been written not in luxurious surroundings but in squalid garrets, in prisons: frequently in beds of sickness and pain and under other circumstances which would have discouraged less determined

It is easy to be deceived by appearances. One listens to a great musician and it seems so natural we say, he is a born musician. The truth is that behind that apparent ease there lies hundreds of hours of concentration and stern discipline. For the greater part of his life Paderewski practised eight hours a day and he said if he allowed himself to cut this playing in half; phos, where they took ship in movement was inaugurated. he immediately noticed it and soon after the musical critics

ON HIS OWN CONFESSION Winston Churchill writes his speeches as many as six times and he would agree with an instructor who said to young ministers. "The secret of selfpossession in the pulpit is thorough preparation." WHEN PROFESSOR JOHN BUCKLEY said all the rich men's sons he knew had been failures he may not have been one hundred per cent correct but there was enough truth in his statement natural? The answer is "quite have to worry about actually to make it a warning to all who get things the easy way. Wasn't it Carlyle who said: "Genius is the capacity for taking infinite Federal civil defence planners, came, many would be affected pains." No doubt the children of poor parents have their whose job it is to work out and by the dangerous radio-active troubles but it is well-nigh certain that making stepping-stones constantly looking for elevators is to invite failure. through the market at Athens: "How many things are here l can do without."
