IN MEMORIAM

BURKHOLDER — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Oscar Burkholder, who passed away Oct. 29, 1956.

He is not dead, just gone before. Gone to be with Jesus, whom he adored:
A place of bliss, where pains and sorrow cease,
Just beyond the sunset, where there is joy and peace.
Sadly missed by his wife Mary, and family.

CLARKE — In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Reg. Clarke, who died Nov. 1st, 1953.
Lovingly remembered by mother, dad, brothers and sisters.

CLARKE — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Reginald K. Clarke, who passed away suddenly November 1st, 1953.
Deep in our hearts lies a picture of a loved one laid to rest. In memory's frame we shall keep it Because he was one of the best.
Lovingly remembered—
Lorraine, daughters Sharon & Janice Clarke.

Invite Pit Owners to Meeting

Councillor Kathleen James who was appointed last week to represent Markham at the special meeting concerning the control of gravel pits, requested advice on Monday night as to the advisability of inviting the pit owners to the first meeting of the committee. Council expressed the view that committee should use its own judgment, but councillor Mumberson stated that he believed it would be a good idea for the pit owners to attend as the various views might be of value to the committee.

Change Plan
Planning Director Forrest advised council of the several changes in the Official Plan. Permission was given for a service station near Cherry Hill farm on No. 7 highway and a second on the townline west of Stouffville near the Ratcliff Park. He also spoke on the survey made in connection with the removal of sand from the road allowance at the Sabiston pit. It was estimated that a total of 31,000 cubic yards had been removed, and was valued at 55¢ per yd. Clerk Crisp was instructed to write Mr. Sabiston requesting him to attend the next meeting of council at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Donland Complaints
Messrs. Russell and Stevens representing ratepayers of Donland, appeared before council with a number of complaints. They did not consider that an advertisement in the local papers was sufficient notice in regard to cutting weeds. They stated that council was lax in controlling weeds on their own roadside.
The visitors also complained of the roads as completed by Leo Construction company who put in the water mains. They said that culverts were blocked. Mr. Jorganson, engineer, replied that the work had only recently been completed and that the mains and culverts would be covered and cleared before freeze-up.

It was to the newsroom that Cecil and I went on Saturday morning to receive our identification badges and cards and for the briefing for all newsmen and radio and television commentators. This was, in itself, a new experience for me. Here

Just My Views . . .

By Elizabeth Day
(Written especially for the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Assn.)

You know the old nursery rhyme — "Pussy-cat, Pussy-cat, where have you been? I've been to London to see the Queen!" Well, that is all I can think of these past few days. I've been to Ottawa to see the Queen! It was a wonderful and thrilling experience, one which in all my wildest dreaming, I had never thought would be mine. I enjoyed every minute of it, got so excited at times, as any five-year old, and tried to take in as much as possible to tell you.
We arrived in Ottawa on Friday at noon, and everywhere you could feel the excitement that was mounting higher and higher as the time for the Queen's arrival drew nearer. The streets and buildings were all decorated in red, white and blue for the occasion and stands were being erected along the various routes to be taken, for the use of radio men and T.V. cameras. Everything was being given last minute attention.

In the Chateau Laurier on the ground floor to the right of the main door are two large rooms and these were given over to the use of the press during the Royal visit. In the first room screened off on the right was all sorts of message-sending and receiving equipment. There were twenty-four teletype machines, besides other equipment, and round-the-clock telegraph service was maintained. There were direct connections with various American cities and direct cable connections for overseas. There were world-wide communication connections here for every member of the press.
The back room had a number of telephone stalls or booths set up around the walls and in the centre were two long tables on which were dozens of typewriters and piles of copy paper. Any qualified reporter was free to use this equipment and any information could be obtained here, either printed or from one of the four people in charge. This room was to be known as the news-room for the duration of the Royal visit.

When we arrived at the airport the buses were parked so we would know where to come as soon as the ceremonies were over. We were shown to our special seats in the big hangar. There were bleachers built out-of-doors at the end of the runway and around the side for the public and inside the hangar were stands with chairs for people of the armed forces and others with special invitations. These stands went along the sides at an angle and across the back, leaving the centre free for the color guard and the guard of honour. My seat was about half way up the stand along the left side and I had an excellent view of all the proceedings.

The decorations were very nice here and there were beautiful flags flying from tall standards. People kept arriving for quite a while after we were seated, and were shown to their seats by girls of the air-force. At last the P.A. system announced that the Royal aircraft was over Hudson Heights and you could feel the excitement growing each minute. Suddenly I could see the aircraft out over the field circling for its landing and I got so excited. Two motorcycles escorted a Cadillac to the front of the hangar and Prime Minister and Mrs. Diefenbaker alighted and walked to their seats just below me in the stands. Mrs. Diefenbaker was wearing a dress in a very pretty shade of blue with large hat to match and a mink stole. When they were seated, the Governor General arrived.

I will not go into detail about all the ceremony, for most of you watched it all on television and have since read about it in the daily papers. But it was certainly a memorable occasion for me when at last, with the Royal Aircraft in position, the door opened and Queen Elizabeth appeared. I don't think I shall ever forget her as she stood there for a moment on the steps, looking so beautiful in that handsome red outfit and such a lovely smile on her face. I watched her intently as she was greeted by each person in their own turn, and then as she walked below me to review her guard of honour. All too soon it ended and the Queen and Prince Philip were getting into their car.

$20,000 for Hospital

bridge Township Council held a special meeting to discuss their $20,000 hospital debenture. The bylaw was given its third reading and it was agreed that the issue should be offered to the citizens of the municipality. The town of Uxbridge will float a $40,000 debenture issue and the Township of Scott has given three readings to a $16,000 issue. The Township of Reach will support the project with a $4,000 issue early in 1958.

Work on the hospital is expected to begin on Monday. It has been estimated that it will cost $163,784 to finish the building.
A settlement was reached last week with the L. C. Scott Construction Co. for $11,012.18 less than the amount previously requested by the Contractor. All local labour will be used in the completion of the structure and tenders will be accepted from local tradesmen. Mr. Taylor told the Tribune that he feels that the Board will have no trouble in equipping the hospital. He said that he expected the exterior work would be completed in fourteen weeks.

flame in the room.
Hold Gun Parallel
For the smoothest results, hold the gun parallel to the work and at right angles about 6 to 10 inches from the stock. Test on an inconspicuous spot or on a piece of scrap wood to determine that the distance will result in a smooth finish.
Take care not to tilt the gun or arc the strokes, faults usually caused by holding the wrist too stiffly.
Stirs up Dust
Pull the trigger of the spray gun just before moving the gun across the work and release it at the edge, making sure you continue the stroke until it is just past the surface.
Spraying furniture or other objects while they are on the ground is not a good practice, as this will stir up settled dust and spoil the paint surface.
A final word of caution: Don't neglect to cover anything in the room which might be damaged
