

Mrs. Asa Sider, 95, Was Lifelong Resident

Mrs. C. Milsted

Another aged and respected citizen, Mrs. Asa Sider, passed away late Friday afternoon at Gormley Nursing Home, in her 95th year. Mrs. Sider, nee Louisa Oxendale, was born in Toronto on Feb. 1, 1864. The family later settled at Bethesda. She attended school at Bethesda where the late Mr. Isaac Pike was her teacher. Mr. Pike later taught several of her family. She was converted at the age of ten, and for seventy-nine years was a member of the Brethren in Christ Church at Helse Hill. She was very active in church work and taught Sunday School for many years.

On June 30, 1886, she was united in marriage with Mr. Asa Sider, who predeceased her on August 7, 1944. Mr. and Mrs. Sider farmed for years on the Empringham farm and also the Moran farm at Bethesda. About fifty years ago they moved to Gormley where Mr. and Mrs. Corfield now live. In 1940 they moved to Stouffville. Mrs. Sider is survived by the following family—Sarah, Mrs. Dent Law of Stouffville, John of Gormley, Anna, Mrs. J. Dewsbury of Richmond Hill; Mabel, Mrs. Win Timbers of Stouffville; Lydia, Mrs. Fred Hill of Long Branch; twin sons Peter of Willowdale and Joseph of Stouffville, and Levi of Vancouver. Levi was not present at the funeral but he had visited his mother this summer. One daughter, Mrs. Mary, Mrs. Seth Wideman of Gormley and one son Wesley of Detroit, died quite a number of years ago, and one son Alfred died in infancy. Thirty-six grandchildren, fifty great-grandchildren, and one great-great grandchild also survive.

About twenty years ago, Mrs. Sider was quite ill with a heart condition. Since that time she enjoyed excellent health until she fell on June 13 and broke her hip. Her mind was very keen, she had all her faculties and could sew without glasses. Just before she fell, she cut out the pattern for a new dress for herself. Her family later finished it and she wore it for her burial. She loved to talk of olden times, and had a wonderful memory for all her old friends and neighbours. She often spoke of being prepared to die, and one of her favourite hymns was, "If Jesus Should Come, I'd welcome His call from on High."

When she broke her hip, she was taken to Newmarket Hospital, where they operated and pinned her hip. She was later removed to Gormley Rest Home. Mrs. Sider was resting at O'Neill's funeral parlours, Stouffville, until Sunday noon. The funeral service was held at Helse Hill at 2:30 p.m. Sunday with interment at the cemetery there. Bishop Alvin Winger spoke from the text, "Lettest now thy servant depart in peace." He was assisted by Rev. J. R. Steckley, and Rev. Wm. Vanderbent who read a very appropriate poem. The Henderson sisters sang "Beyond the Sunset" and "Safe Within the Veil." Six grandsons, were pallbearers: Theodore and Walter Wideman, Harold Sider, Bruce Sider, Bob Timbers and Neil Hill. The church was well filled.

"Thus closes another chapter on one of our early residents. One of Mrs. Sider's last remarks was, "Hallelujah, I'm going home."

Cedar Grove News

Now that the leisurely summer is past; now that the picking is in full swing; now that the pears are ripening by the thousands; now that the cows are 'fed up' on dried pasture; now we get warm weather, light breezes, rain and lush green grass and now the flowers bloom in glorious profusion everywhere. Perhaps it would be a good project for some of our atomic missile scientists (soon to be unemployed?) to figure out how to give this old world a tilt that will put the weather program back where our calendar expects it.

The children are talking of Markham Fair these days and this year, some of the school contests will have S.S. 20 pupils in the lineup.

It was worth waiting for, a night like last Saturday for the Community corn roast. It was a beautiful evening and the huge fire in Woodland Park beside the river prattling along when the evening was in full swing, Elliot Harrington, representing Cedar Grove, presented Eleanor and Murray Sewell with a wedding present from the community. It was a good evening all round.

Cedar Grove extends heartfelt sympathy to Jack Walton whose father died suddenly last week.

The October meeting of the WAMS will be held on October 1st at the home of Mrs. Maltland Ryan.

Sunday is Rally Day at Zion Church and parents of the Sunday School children are invited to come to the service at 2:30 to see the children pass through the little white gate from one class to the next. Pins will be presented to regular attenders.
