ATTEND SUMMER SCHOOL

Edward L. Herbert and Donald S. Kennedy of Stouffville, were among the 275 secondary school teachers who attended an intensive 2-week summer school at Lawrence Park Collegiate, Toronto. The course, which ended July 10, was the fifth consecutive summer school sponsored by the Ont. Secondary School Teachers' Federation for its members.

In age the teachers ran from 25 to 50. They voluntarily switched roles to become students again in order to improve their professional qualifications. The course is part of the year-round program of professional development sponsored by the Federation. Living expenses plus a fee are paid by the teachers themselves.

About half the teachers attending the course had had experience in the subjects they were taking but wished to broaden their knowledge. The remainder were taking the subjects for the first time. Approximately two-thirds expect to teach their subjects in the next school term.

The summer school has been a success from its initiation. This year there were 125 more teachers attending than in 1958 and the curriculum was expanded by five subjects to a total of eleven. The course commenced in 1955 with only two subjects being offered. Director of the course was Harold W. Hill, head of the mathematics department at Jarvis Collegiate Institute, Toronto. Mr. Hill, who is vice-chairman of the OSSTF professional development committee, has a staff of 18. He also directed the course in 1958.

Grandson of Former Resident Stars on Stage

Fourteen year old Bill Potton, grandson and great-grandson of former Stouffville residents, has already been classed as a veteran performer on the stage. He is currently playing a lead role in the Music Fair production, "The King and I". He is the great-grandson of the late Chris Zellers, former resident in the East End of Stouffville, and the grandson of Delta Zellers, also of Stouffville.

When "The King and I" was staged in Buffalo a month ago, Bill was busy writing his Grade 9 exams at Lawrence Heights Junior High School.

He got up at six and studied before going to school to write the exam. Every day after school, his mother drove him to Buffalo for the performance. He studied on the way and slept coming back.

Bill passed his exams and next fall will start Grade 10 at Bathurst Heights C.I.

In the years that he has been performing (he started at 11 in the Royal Conservatory production of Tosca) Bill has acted on such television shows as "On Camera", "Showtime", "General Motors Theatre" and "CBC Folio".

He gave his best singing performance in Benjamin Britten's "Turn of the Screw" in the Stratford Shakespearean Festival two summers ago.

While in Hollywood this winter, Bill acted in an episode of the Lassie series and again sang the role of Miles in the Britten opera — this time at UCLA.

Musical—

At a musicale held in the United Church parlor in June, twenty-three pupils of Miss A. Lehman A.T.C.M. played a varied program of instrumental piano music. On June 21st, four pupils tried Royal Conservatory Piano tests and passed: Grade 5—Mary Anderson (hon.); Grade 5—John Nolan (hon.); Grade 5—Frances Farr; Grade 2, Ann Parrott.
