JUST A COUPLE OF FRIENDLY KIDS—Six-year-old Linda Larcombe and a week-old piggy bank are cuddling companions at Wraysbury, England. Living on a farm, Linda has plenty of animal playmates such as this one.

IDEAL MAKEUP GIRL—Stella Morris seems to be a handy one to have around as she works on Jeff Chandler's makeup in Ein Kerem, Israel. Third arm is hairdresser's.

IT'S A FUNNY WORLD—Nicholas Langford Holt finds the world is his plaything at Shrewsbury, England. His dad made the map out of linoleum.

CLASSIC — Jumper takes high-fashion touches for sub-teens in New York.

BUILDING A PRECEDENT—Something new on the London architectural scene is this United States Embassy building. Upper facade is grille of pre-cast concrete.

EDUCATIONAL FOOTNOTE—Kindergarten kids in Lanakila, Hawaii, insisted on kicking off their shoes when going to school (top). Their parents solved the problem of missing shoes by building a rack in school for the shoes (bottom).

A HARD DAY SPENT IN THE FIELDS—Wearily turning homeward, rice farmers ride water buffaloes along road near Manila in the Philippines.

A WEE WHEELER

IT'S DOUBTFUL if anyone would challenge Rih-Aruso's claim of being the "King of Balance" after seeing him ride his bike in London. The bike, complete in every detail, is barely big enough to fit in his hand.

Rih-Aruso, an Austrian, pedals his way through London.

To get an idea of the bike's size, Rih-Aruso put it under a regular bike.
