

Stouffville Bakery Marks Forty Years of Progress With Fine Enlarged Store Premises

Stouffville Bakery, operated by the Stover family, is this year marking forty years of progress. On this milestone the Stovers have opened one of the finest bake goods stores to be found anywhere. The new enlarged premises is bright, air-conditioned and has ample space to display the dozens of fine bake goods which the firm makes.

It is interesting to note that Stouffville's first bakery was opened in 1891 by J. B. Wurts and required fifteen barrels of flour a week. This bakery was eventually sold to Frank Gordon and later to Frank Rowbotham.

In 1921 Ambrose Stover acquired the bakery which by this time had grown to an output of 30 barrels of flour a week, had seven men on the staff and required 9 horses and 2 trucks for delivery purposes.

Today the bakery is operated by Harry Stover, son of the man who took over the business forty years ago. The output of the bakery has almost tripled, and the staff numbers more than twenty employees. The use of horse-drawn vehicles for delivery was discontinued ten years ago, and the firm now operates five trucks.

All the bread produced today is wrapped and there are over one dozen varieties in addition to the great host of other fine bake goods. The Stouffville Bakery delivers within a radius of twelve miles of town, and the renown of its products is known much farther than that.

None of the original equipment used by the Stover family remains in use today. Numerous new mechanical devices have been added both for producing and wrapping operations. The great bread ovens, once fired by coke, then changed to oil, are presently being converted to gas.
