KEEPING TIME WITH SUN IS OLD PROBLEM

Sweethearts may be more interested in the moon, but for centuries calendar makers have devoted plenty of attention to the sun. In fact, the sun caused the year 46 B.C. to have 445 days—the longest year in calendar history.

The Roman Calendar, supposedly created by Numa Pompilius, in the seventh century B.C., was revised several times. Yet, when Julius Caesar put his experts to work on the Julian calendar, they found the Roman calendar was two months behind the sun. This presented them a problem: they had to catch up with the sun before the Julian calendar could take over as the official method of marking time.

They solved the problem by adding two extra months to the year 46 B.C., inserting them between the months of November and December.
