The New Car Warranties

There's a popular song of a few seasons back that says "love and marriage go together..." The same good sense applies to new car owners and reliable dealers.

Though vastly improved over models of only a few years back, today's new cars still require service. That is the basic reason they are sold through dealer service establishments and not in "supermarkets" along with appliances and other products.

Manufacturers, of course, have always recognized this, as shown by their administration of the new "12 months and 12,000 miles" warranties, first publicized in 1961 and offered by all makers in the '62 models.

Though most drivers fail to realize it until trouble develops, these guarantees are based on the dealer's "sole judgment" of whether a factory part is at fault. How a new car owner's warranty claims are adjusted depends largely on the dealer he buys from.

Some volume dealers, interested only in quick sales profits, are reluctant to take on this type of "flat rate" warranty work because they lose money on it, or simply lack the facilities to perform the repairs. And if a purchaser bought his new car from a non-franchised "discount" operator, then he has, of course, no service claims whatsoever.

Here is some good advice a large consumer organization recently gave its subscribers: "Car warranties are so worded to obligate the dealer, not the manufacturer, to make good on faults. Restrict your car shopping to those dealerships which have earned a reputation for fair dealing in making warranty repairs. Buy the dealer as well as the car."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(Lesson for January 21)
GOD IS A SPIRIT
Exodus 20:4-6; John 4:5-26

GOLDEN TEXT — God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth.—John 4:24

THE LESSON AS A WHOLE
It is well that we constantly consider the nature and glory of the God of the Bible. While men today often speak of Him, in reality the masses do not know Him. The modern god is little better than finite, capricious, partisan, and indulgent. He shows favoritism, tends to be sentimental, and takes an extremely easygoing attitude toward sin and disobedience. The trouble is that such a god as this is one of man's own manufacture. Certainly this is not the Deity of the Holy Bible.

We desperately need to debunk this modern caricature by freshly presenting the living and true God. Only as men become aware of His infinity, magnitude, transcendence, and righteousness will they become conscious of their awful depravity and deep spiritual need. This is precisely the essential background for the preaching of the Gospel of free grace. No one is interested in enjoying the forgiveness of his sins unless he becomes aware that those very sins are endangering his eternal welfare. And he is not likely to see this peril until he sees his moral blackness against the blinding whiteness of God's holiness.

The Heart of the Lesson
What is God? The Bible answers that he is "love" (1 John 4:8), "light" (1 John 1:5), and

"a consuming fire" (Heb. 12:29). These, however, seem to be moral attributes of His nature rather than the essence of that nature itself. In discussing the subject of spiritual worship with the woman at the well, our Lord stated that "God is a spirit" (John 4:24), and again pointed out that a "spirit hath not flesh and bones" (Luke 24:39). He, therefore, is not material substance, and in His essential being is invisible (see Exodus 33:20; John 1:18; Col. 1:15; 1 Tim. 1:17). None has seen, nor can see, Him (see 1 Tim. 6:16).

Nor do certain Bible passages concerning various ones seeing God contradict this. That He did appear to some on special occasions is certainly stated (see Gen. 32:30; Exodus 24:9-11; Isa. 6:1). But such manifestations were veiled and partial, and took the form of angelic or human guise. These were evidently pre-incarnate appearances of the Lord Jesus, as the angel of Jehovah, "whose goings forth have been from of old, from everlasting" (Mic. 5:2).

There is a real sense in which we have never seen the sun. What we actually do see is the glory, or corona, of the sun. So God in His essential being is invisible to created eyes; His glory only may be seen.

This fact should have completely prevented man from fashioning likenesses of the Deity. Such resemblances could have originated in his own fallen imagination only (see Deut. 4:15).

Because He is spirit, and not matter, any worshipful approach to Him on the part of man, therefore, must be spiritual to be acceptable.

Time To Think About Emergency Farm Power

The ice-storm season is again with us and farmers are asking questions about generators for stand-by power. Perhaps these ideas of Ontario Department of Agriculture extension engineer H. E. Wright will be of help.

Mr. Wright recommends buying generators that can be operated by P.T.O. belt power, gasoline motor or a natural gas engine. Tractor-driven generators produce an alternating current of 110/220 volts with an output varying from 3,000 to 12,000 watt capacity.

The size of the generator you select depends on the amount of power that is needed to supply essential equipment, says Mr. Wright. Here are some examples of what a dairyman might need:

- ½ h.p. milking machine needs 6-7 amps.
- ¾ h.p. bulk milk tank needs 10-12 amps.
- 1 h.p. bulk milk tank agitator needs 4-5 amps.
- ½ h.p. water tank motor needs 6-7 amps.

This will total 26 to 31 amps. Now he suggests using this formula: Amperes times volts equals watts. Substituting, you get: 28 amps x 100 volts equals 3,080 watts. All 600 watts for minimum house and barn lighting and you end up with a total wattage need of 3,680 watts for one dairyman.

"Stagger the motors so that you can use a smaller unit of about 2,500 watts to handle emergency requirements," suggests the Ontario Department of Agriculture engineer. "A generator of this capacity (complete with control panel mounting a voltmeter and plug-in receptacles) costs about $400. Bigger tractor-driven units producing 3,000 to 12,000 watts range from $425 to $700."

Can you afford it? Milk production losses, of course, might eat up the cost of the generator within a week, says Mr. Wright. Other ideas: (1) two dairymen could stagger their milking hours and both use the same portable equipment; and (2) portable generators are handy as power units for welding equipment break-downs in the field.
