Stouffville Team Captures Quaker Relay

On Saturday afternoon of this week the track at Pickering College was in excellent condition for the running of the annual Quaker Relays. In the Junior division, North Toronto Collegiate were favoured to win with Stouffville placing a poor fourth. At the opening gun it was easy to see that the Stouffville squad wouldn't be denied and they walked off with top honours.

The members of the team — Andy and Fred Watson, John Riddle and John Hisey put forth a great effort in the biggest track upset in recent runnings of the Relays.

Mr. Rehill stated, "The fellows are in top shape and I have high hopes that they will go all the way in Georgian Bay competition." The fleet-footed four, as they have become known around the school, will put in their next appearance in the Echarde Track Meet on May 17.

May Prom
 The school auditorium was transformed into a tropical paradise for the May Prom of this week. The decoration committee under Susan Ogilvy made close to 1200 artificial flowers and leaves to create an overhead garden. On stage, Ron Patrick depicted the theme, "South Pacific Sunset" with a huge mural and waving palm tree. The centre of interest was the garden and silver pool devised and built by Rodger Mole's committee.

At the magical hour of 12 the suspense of a week of waiting came to an end for the May Queen candidates. The senior students selected pretty Lynda Nolan as Queen and Marcelle Willis and Barbara Button as her attendants.

The receiving line consisted of student Council President Warren Hendricks and his guest Lynda Nolan, Dr. and Mrs. F. J. Button, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Duxbury, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. F. Marlett. Special thanks to these people and to the many students and guests who made this year's Prom a real success.

Oh yes, we would like to thank Eric Button's committee who had to clean up on Saturday morning!

On The Farm Front

(A. A. Wall, Agricultural Representative, York County)

With an early spring and good weather, farm work generally is well caught up for this time of year. This is the first season in several that there will be a good gap between seeding and haying. There is always lots of fencing and building repairs to look after but one other job that merits some attention is the cleaning up of dead trees and branches. This is especially important for elm trees. One real farm tragedy in York County is the fact that we are gradually losing elms from Dutch Elm Disease. On almost every farm I visit, I see several trees affected. There is no cure for the disease and tree experts predict that unless some real effort goes into prevention, it's only a matter of time until all our elms will be gone.

The disease is caused by a fungus which produces a poison in the sap. The first symptoms are a rapid wilting and discoloration on one or more of the upper limbs. Dutch Elm Disease is spread by Elm Bark Beetles and the only methods of control are to either spray healthy trees so that the beetles can't infect them or to destroy all dead elm wood, which is the breeding place for the beetles. Spraying is difficult because it has to be done when the tree is dormant, and because of the size and height of the elms, special equipment is needed to do the spraying. A more practical control for farmers is to remove and destroy dead trees and broken branches. This at least will help to slow down the spread of the disease. If the dead wood cannot be burned immediately, it should thoroughly sprayed with DDT, 1 lb. in 20 gallons of fuel oil. Living trees can be sprayed in either spring or fall when the leaves are off, with DDT at 20 lbs. to 100 gallons of water.

It is also a good time now to make preparations for spraying weeds. Generally, weed spraying is done too late to be most effective. Mustard, for example, has done most of its harm to the crop by the time it reaches the blossom stage. Weeds are easier to kill when they are small and killed early they do not get a chance to rob the crop of moisture and plant food. The best time to spray spring grain is just after the crop is 6" high. There are special sprays available for seedling down crops. We have complete information on spraying all crops in our bulletin entitled, "1962 Guide to Chemical Weed Control," available at our offices in Newmarket.

Don't forget that it's a poor idea to quarrel before company, and remember that two is company.

LIBERAL PICNIC ON MAY 22nd

What will undoubtedly be a big York North event has been planned for Tuesday, May 22nd. Over 100,000 people, adults and children, too, will receive invitations to a monster Community Picnic to be held at Kingcroft Farm, King Township.

The hosts for the Picnic, Mr. and Mrs. John Addison, have arranged for all sorts of fun and games for the children, a jumping display by some of Canada's leading horsemen, a brass band, supervised parking for several thousand cars, and a marquee in case of rain. John Addison said that the Community Picnic is a family event and everyone is welcome. It is expected that both Mr. Pearson and John Addison will deliver short addresses but the main attraction, other than the entertainment, will be an opportunity for everyone to meet Mr. Pearson and the Liberal candidate for York North.
