

LET'S TALK CARS

The Summer Market

In the six weeks ending June 30, dealers take in more used cars as trades on new car sales than in any other six weeks in the year. This volume means that used car buyers purchasing in this abundant market can choose from a much greater variety of models, often at reduced prices.

The car business is like any other when it comes to the cost of maintaining a large inventory of products. In this case used cars. It is very much to the dealer's interest to keep his supply to an economical minimum so as to reduce his daily overhead.

This is especially so this year when auto sales are nearing their all-time top record of 1955. Recent industry statistical reports show sales in April reached their highest point in 6 1/2 years with market forecasts for early Summer of "glowing strength" according to Ward's Automotive Reports.

Patrick Motors believes that thoroughly reconditioned used cars sold with reliable guarantees are both easier to sell and build repeat business for a dealership. As a matter of fact, it is the used car operation that spells success or failure to most dealers in our business today. Certainly a dealer would have a difficult time succeeding handily carried by a poor used car operation.

It is for this reason that we take pride in our used cars. Time and effort and money spent on conditioning them is returned in many ways, but most especially in customers who come back to buy their next car and who often bring others.
