SEED FAIR ON MARCH 20

The York County Seed Fair and Hay Show is on next week. The date is Wednesday, March 20, and it will be at the Newmarket Legion Hall.

We always like to see lots of seed entries at this fair. Seed is an important item in getting good crops. Seed drill surveys have often shown that an alarming percentage of seed being used, would have made much better pig feed. Seed with poor germination or even with a lot of weed seeds often gets by, if a person doesn't give it a real close examination. The Seed Fair is a good place to find out how your seed rates for quality.

We find, however, that only a few people want to prepare show samples. We still encourage well prepared exhibits, but this year, we are offering a new service to those who haven't the time or equipment to dress up an exhibit. Farmers are asked to simply bring in a pound or two of the seed they intend to sow. It can be brought in a paper bag, tin can or the traditional Corn Flakes box. These samples will not be judged competitively but will be examined by the judge, and he will give the owner an idea as to whether it is suitable for seed or not. The owner's name will not be used on the sample, so that he can bring in seed he may be doubtful about, without endangering his reputation. I hope there will be lots of samples for rating.

The hay classes are important too, with ever increasing emphasis on quality in forage crops. There are classes for all different kinds of hay, exhibits are easy to prepare, and there is good prize money.

A good program has been set up for the afternoon of the Seed Fair. D. L. Parks, new director of the Soils and Crops Branch of the Department of Agriculture will be the feature speaker. Mr. Parks is a well known authority on crops, a specialist on forage crops and he talks from a practical farmer's point of view.

I will be talking about fertilizers, and there will be an open question period on any phase of soils and crops. We hope to see the Legion Hall at Newmarket full of both people and exhibits on Wednesday, March 20th.

Conservation Warns Of Spring Floods

The Metropolitan Toronto and Region Conservation Authority warns parents in the 1,000 square mile region about the dangers to children of flooding streams, water-filled ditches and excavations created by Spring conditions.

The Authority notes that there has already been some flooding in local areas, despite the fact that the ice in regional rivers and streams still is thick.

It adds that a quick thaw coupled with seasonal rains could easily lead to the rapid melting of the ice and result in sudden and serious flooding.

"At this time of year, swiftly-running water in our streams due to Spring runoff has a magnetic fascination for children—one that could easily be fatal," warns Dr. G. Ross Lord, Authority chairman.

"I earnestly ask parents in the region to take all necessary steps to point out the dangers of flood-swollen streams and other water courses to their children."

Sunday School Lesson

GOLDEN TEXT: And why call ye me, Lord, Lord, and do not the things which I say?
—Luke 6:46.

Approach to the Lesson

We are now in the last week of our Lord's life before He bore the Cross. The previous Friday He and His disciples had arrived in Bethany and rested there Saturday, the Jewish Sabbath. Sunday saw the Triumphal Entry into Jerusalem and survey of the Temple. Subsequently there was the cleansing of which our passage tells us, the second time this was done. It is significant that the first was at the beginning of His ministry and the second in the final days. (I disagree with those who hold that Mark and John are describing the same event.)

There were many wrongs that Jesus did not stop to put right and, as Dr. Campbell Morgan reminds us, His eyes must have seen many things contrary to the Kingdom of Heaven and the will of God His Father on the ride into the proud and ancient city of Jerusalem. But His ministry was focused on the basic essentials, and ours must be, too. When churches or mission organizations spend the major part of their time and effort on social and philanthropic work they miss the great truth that social needs can only fundamentally be met by way of spiritual adjustment. To put things right in the Temple will be the quickest way to putting them right in business, home, and political worlds.

Heart of the Lesson

There are two main lessons in our passage today, both stemming from one source: our response to the authority of the Lord. As we have seen, the Temple authorities were punctilious to the last degree about the details of the Law and yet utterly failed to observe its spirit. Consequently, dishonesty in and irreverence for the house of prayer concerned them not at all. Similarly they were anxious about questions of authority but cared nothing for response to spiritual life and power. Both these failings (very evident as they are in the Church of Christ today) stem from the poverty of our discipleship and love for Him. If He is truly our Lord we shall respect the place and people where we gather to worship; we shall see that our lives honor Him in every detail; we shall jealously guard the purity of His people; and we shall gladly acknowledge and respond to every manifestation of spiritual power wherever it is found. Have we learned this lesson? It is vital that we do, for even our Lord does not force open the deliberately closed mind.
