TO SELECT HIGH SCHOOL MAY QUEEN AT PROM. FRIDAY

(Robt. Mole)
When you come to our May Prom this Friday evening, May 3rd, don't look for the usual and the ordinary. You won't find it. Stouffville High, in keeping pace with the times, has departed from the old conventional theme, such as last year's "South Pacific Sunset" and will present an exciting new idea — "Evening in the Twilight Zone".

The Twilight Zone, as you know, is a region in which the imagination is master. And imagination will be the master at this year's prom. The decoration committee is planning to interpret the Twilight Zone in an artistic and creative sense. A giant modern arts mural, 200 ft. in length, will encompass the gymnasium. The mural was painted on Tuesday by all students and members of the staff. Each class, under some art supervision, created portions of it. By allowing the whole school to participate in preparations for the dance we hope to regenerate some school spirit and interest in the prom this year. (With any kind of luck, 200-ft. murals may become as popular as jamming telephone booths or 50-mile hikes). And this is only one of the new ideas that will be presented.

The highlight of the evening and the centre of attraction, of course, will be the crowning of Stouffville's May Queen for '63. The May Queen is not necessarily the prettiest girl in the school, but rather the one with the most charming personality. Nominees for the post are chosen by Mr. Marshall and a panel of five boys from the upper grades. The nominees are: Barbara Button, Karen Kennedy, Jean Winterstein, Barbara Howard, Janet Devlin, Marilyn Haylow, Bernadine Terwards, Gail Cossey and Carol Ann Cossey. Last year's winner, Lynda Nolan, will be on hand to crown the winner.

Frank Evans and his band are returning this year to provide the music to keep everyone dancing from 9-11. To the general public we extend an invitation to what promises to be our best dance of the year. Dress is semi-formal. Track and field activities are starting to move into full swing. On Thursday (today), S.D.H.S. meets its two arch rivals, Markham and Woodbridge, head on in a warm-up meet at Markham. This Saturday, May 4th Stouffville will place an entry in the Hamilton Relays. On Tuesday of next week the school will hold its annual field day.
