

Passage Through Berlin Wall was Highlight of Teacher's Overseas Trip

The Berlin Wall, a topic of current historical significance since its erection in August, 1961 was viewed first-hand by a 22 year old Claremont district girl, one of the more than 100 young people and adults who attended the Baptist Youth World Congress in Beirut, Lebanon. Miss Joyce Schneider, Ashburn, RR 1, a teacher on the staff of the Beamsville Public School left by air from Malton on July 4th and returned home five weeks later after visiting such well-known distant points as London, Vienna, Jerusalem, Jordan, Rome and Paris. A travelogue of her trip will be shown in pictures at the Claremont Baptist Church on Monday evening, Aug. 26th.

Armed Guards
Arrangements for passage through the wall at a location known as "Check-Point Charlie" had been made ahead of time but in spite of this, it took nearly three hours to gain entry into East Berlin. All individual passports were retained by customs officials. The group travelled by car and subway to a church inside the Communist-controlled zone and joined with the congregation in a regular service. The Berlin Wall is patrolled by armed East German guards. Some sections are barricaded by barbed wire and chipped glass, and the windows of houses and apartments bordering on the wall have been boarded up. In West Germany, memorials have been set up for those who died in attempting to escape across the line, including that of Peter Fechter who was shot by guards and left to bleed to death only a few feet from freedom. Several in the East German congregation could speak broken English and at least one expressed a keen desire to return. The "wall" was erected in such a short time that many were caught behind the barricade and their escape was sealed off. West Berlin was described as a city comparable to Montreal or Toronto.

Countries of Contrasts
The one-week Congress was held in the large sports arena in Beirut, Lebanon and was attended by about 4,000 people. The group was taken on a cruise across the Sea of Galilee, visited the Garden Tomb of Christ, travelled down the River Nile and even rode on camels among the giant Egyptian pyramids. Many of the countries visited present scenes of contrast, new cars and donkeys; palatial hotels and slum areas; wealthy tourists and beggars. Like Berlin, there is a division between Israel and Jordan. Israel is much like Toronto while Jordan is filthy and poverty-stricken.

American tourists are everywhere and souvenir shops are numerous. Joyce brought home sample keepsakes of almost every country she visited including some water out of the Dead Sea. The temperature there was 120 degrees. Many of the landmarks mentioned in the Bible have been commercialized due to the tourist trade. Before embarking on the last leg of her trip to Canada, Joyce spent three days in London and visited many of the historic sites in that city. All the highlights of her travels have been captured on film and many can share this adventure in the Baptist Church on Monday evening.

Twenty-two year old, Joyce Schneider, Ashburn, RR 1, returned home recently from an extensive overseas trip to England, Europe and the Holy Land. She brought back mementos of almost every country she visited including this giant cone picked from under a tree in the city of Rome, Italy. —Staff Photo.
