Shopping Starts On The Pages Of This Newspaper

How does the wise shopper know where to go to get the above merchandise and just where the best "buys" are, with no waste motion or loss of time? The secret lies in how well she reads The Tribune before she goes out to shop. She carefully studies all the ads.

She checks, compares, calculates . . . then goes directly to the stores that have the right merchandise for her at the right price.

That's why smart merchants start their selling where she starts her shopping — in the columns of The Tribune.
