OTTAWA REPORT

by JOHN ADDISON M.P. Canada Pension Plan

Every week in Ottawa I receive numerous letters from interested constituents wishing to learn about the nature and provisions of the rather complicated Canada Pension Plan, which was given final approval by the Commons on March 29. Therefore, in the most simplified way, I will try to explain just how the Plan works.

Basically, the Plan is a contributory wage-related scheme designed to provide a retirement benefit equal to 25 percent of a contributor's adjusted lifetime earnings. The Plan is compulsory and is scheduled to come into operation next January when the first payroll deductions will be made; the first benefits will follow one year later in January 1967.

The benefits will be paid on yearly salaries between $600-$800 for self-employed persons and $5,000. Persons who earn less than $600 and $800 will not contribute, nor receive benefits, and persons earning over $5,000 will not contribute, nor get benefits or salaries over that figure. Self-employed persons with a net income above $800 must contribute on earnings over $600.

Presently, the Plan calls for a maximum benefit of $104.17 a month or $1,250.04 a year payable at age 65 after the ten-year transition period. The minimum benefit after the plan matures would be $24.50 a month or $150 a year. Benefits then, can be calculated as one-quarter of a person's annual earnings and contributions will be calculated on a person's yearly earnings between $600-$5,000.

The basis, as far as rates are concerned will be 1.8 percent for employees with 1.8 per cent paid by employers. The rate for self-employed persons is set at 3.6 per cent. Consequently a person earning $5,000 would contribute $75.00 a year while his employer adding the same amount. A self-employed person would contribute the entire $158.40. Similarly, a person earning $1,200 yearly would contribute $10.80 a month while receiving a monthly pension of $25. Benefits will be reduced proportionately for persons drawn into the Mala Street will become stalls for the disposition of dried apples, meats, cookies, preserves and cheeses and the Main Street will become a Mall. There will be booths for crafts and flapjacks. Buses will take any interested visitors to the Sugar Bush where teams and wagons will draw them through the hush to the sugar shanties. It sounds like a wonderful way to spend a Saturday from Cedar Grove.

Anyone having articles to dispose of who would like to donate them to the building fund for the auction at E. Harrington's in May, is asked to contact Archie Little, committee chairman.

In a hurry to pick up a book for a friend's birthday, I was lucky enough to find just what I wanted. As I was about to hand it to the busy clerk, I noticed that the book jacket was soiled. "Isn't this one a little dirty?" I asked as he took it. "Lady," he said impatiently, "I don't know — I haven't had time to read it."

Fined $250 for Impaired Driving

Ernest J. Burns, Toronto, charged with impaired driving February 14th in Stouffville, pleaded guilty Tuesday in Magistrate's Court and was fined $250 and costs. P.C. David Hadden of the Stouffville Police Department told the court that he spotted Burns driving erratically through the Main Street of Stouffville. Const. Hadden said that when the car had stopped he found the accused man passed out over the wheel. The officer said there was no accident involved. It was Burns' second offense. Besides the fine, Magistrate Russell Pearce suspended the accused man's drivers license for three months.

May Close Down Garibaldi School In Uxbridge Twp.

The Garibaldi school on conc. 2, Uxbridge Twp. may be closed. The issue is currently under discussion by the School Area Board. The enrolment is small and the trustees feel that it would be more economical to transport the pupils to Goodwood or other nearby schools. The board is confident that a central school system would attract competent teachers and establish a high level of instruction throughout the township. Preliminary plans are being prepared for an addition to the Goodwood school. The present three classrooms are badly overcrowded.
