Present plans are for a parade in Toronto to kick off the International Plowing Match and arouse the interest for citizens of Metro to come out to the farm. Few have ever attended a plowing match but it is expected the close proximity of this year's site will bring thousands out for a look.

The city parade which will proceed up Bay Street and then north to the CBC parking lot on Jarvis St., will consist of bands, wagons and some antique cars. Some of the wagons will carry well-known CBC personnel.

"Canada's economy is on the move... keep it growing with a Liberal majority"

JOHN ADDISON

Since the Liberals formed the government in 1963, Canada's economic and financial health has been transformed. From chronic illness, during the Diefenbaker years of refusal to recognize problems, the Liberal government has created a new era of sound robust growth with a bright future ahead.

Liberal government policies have brought about a record 9% growth in Gross National Product (the value of all goods and services produced in Canada) in the first year of office. Predictions for the current fiscal year indicate another 9% growth — the best record of any country in the world.

Employment is up by 548,000 new jobs. Unemployment is still too high at 2.8% of the labour force (an 8 year low) but a great improvement over the Tory's 7.2% in '61/'62.

Exports were up 19% in 1964 over 1963, and it wasn't all wheat. The national deficit was only $37 million in 63/64 compared to $791 million in '61/'62. The Liberal government has repaid in full $750 million the Tories borrowed in 1962, from the International Monetary Fund and foreign countries, to bolster Canada's critically low foreign exchange reserves. Today, our reserves are the highest in six years. This year the Liberals intend to balance the budget.

Progress has been made in establishing new industries and in beneficial trade and development agreements. The Columbia River treaty, the free trade agreement on automobiles, massive export sales of wheat... these are only a few Liberal government actions which cannot help but benefit all Canadians now and for a long time to come.

The expanding economy permitted a 10% personal tax cut without jeopardizing social security bills enacted or planned for the future.

BIG DECISIONS AHEAD

But the big and important decisions still ahead demand a majority central government which can bargain and act from strength... a majority government which will exert all its energies for the national good, not for partisan political advantage. That is why an election is needed now.

There can be no healthy constituency anywhere in Canada unless the whole country is buoyant, prosperous and moving ahead with a strong national purpose. The Liberal Party has sensible policies to deliver this objective. The Liberal Party has proved it does what it promises.

John Addison has played an important role in developing Liberal policies for economic prosperity. Your vote for John Addison will ensure a prosperous and secure future for you and your family.
