

Colorful Program Of Events Planned For Centennial '67

All-Day Ceremony July 1 Pick Centennial Queen

STOUFFVILLE — Canada's centennial birthday has taken on real meaning in Stouffville and the enthusiasm displayed by the Program Chairman, Lorne Boardway, has been caught up by the committee members, representing all organizations in town. The next meeting is planned for Thursday, Jan. 26 in the Municipal Building and interested residents are invited to attend.

ENTHUSIASTIC RESPONSE

Centennial enthusiasm is also apparent among the public and attendance at functions to date has exceeded all expectations. An indication of the response from townsfolk was shown at the Legion Ladies' Auxiliary luncheon, Jan. 11 when 400 persons attended. A centennial dance at the high school auditorium and a huge bonfire in the Park, both on New Year's Eve, attracted large crowds and the Stouffville Legion flag-raising, New Year's Day was an impressive program. And there's much more still to come. Dates of functions will be announced as plans are finalized.

Aid Snow Removal

No Overnight Parking

STOUFFVILLE — During a recent snow removal operation on the side streets of Stouffville, police officers were required to ask 53 persons to move their cars from the road, councillor Tom Lonergan informed council at a meeting, Jan. 5. Mr. Lonergan said that the parking problem delayed the workmen in doing a proper job. He pointed out that the loader could go around the vehicles but it looked a mess.

Reeve Ken Laushway said he had heard the same complaint for the past ten years. "Some people continuously leave their cars on the road overnight. We have a bylaw that prohibits this practice and it should be enforced."

TO MOVE HOUSES
Deputy-Reeve Bill Parsons suggested that the council would soon have to begin work on the removal of houses on the east side of Park Street-South. He termed the widening of that road to the Arena as one of the major projects scheduled for 1967.

Reeve Laushway said he had spoken to the contractor who moved the former Daniels' building from Stouffville over to Claremont. The mover, according to Mr. Laushway, agreed to look at the homes and decide if the purchase would be practical.

Jean Barclay

Stouffville will have a Centennial Queen. Jean Barclay will head up the committee and her recommendations will be discussed, Jan. 26. It was agreed that entries should be confined to single girls who are residents of town. An age classification will be established.

Alan Lee, a member of the Stouffville High School student council said that a May Queen competition would be continued as usual but indicated that students who reside in town might also be interested in entering the Centennial Queen contest. It was felt that this should be encouraged. Alan also informed the meeting that the school was preparing a Centennial Year Book to be published in 1968 and contain events of interest in 1967.

Church Service

An open-air community church service is planned for Sunday, July 2, in the Stouffville Park with a mass community choir and all churches participating. Pat Kinsella has agreed to head up the committee.

A Main Street Parade is contemplated for July 1. Lionel Griffiths, Burkholder Street, will attempt to sign up a lead band for the day.

Other events planned include a fireworks display by the Stouffville Legion; a community track and field meet; a fireman's ball, an arena dance; a barbershop harmony program and a box social. The entire centennial program is being covered through colour photography by Cadieux Studio.

William Duxbury

A register for 1967 will be set up in the office of the Stouffville Municipal Building. High School Principal, W. E. Duxbury, also chairman of the Finance Committee, has agreed to set up this additional program. Parents and their children are asked to sign the book and submit a donation on doing so. Visitors in town are especially encouraged to register. Office times and special hours will be outlined at the next meeting.

The Home and School Association is promoting the sale of centennial lapel pins and the Stouffville Lions Club is sponsoring the sale of centennial flags and banners. A community improvement program is proposed and a centennial tree-planting project has been recommended with the Horticultural Society working in conjunction with the two public schools. The Stouffville Public Utilities Commission will be asked to string red, white and blue colored lights across Main Street.
