

The ice-fishing season at an end, Alfred Maynard of North Markham is ready to unhook his fold-away fish hut.

Collapsible Fish Hut Built By North Markham Resident

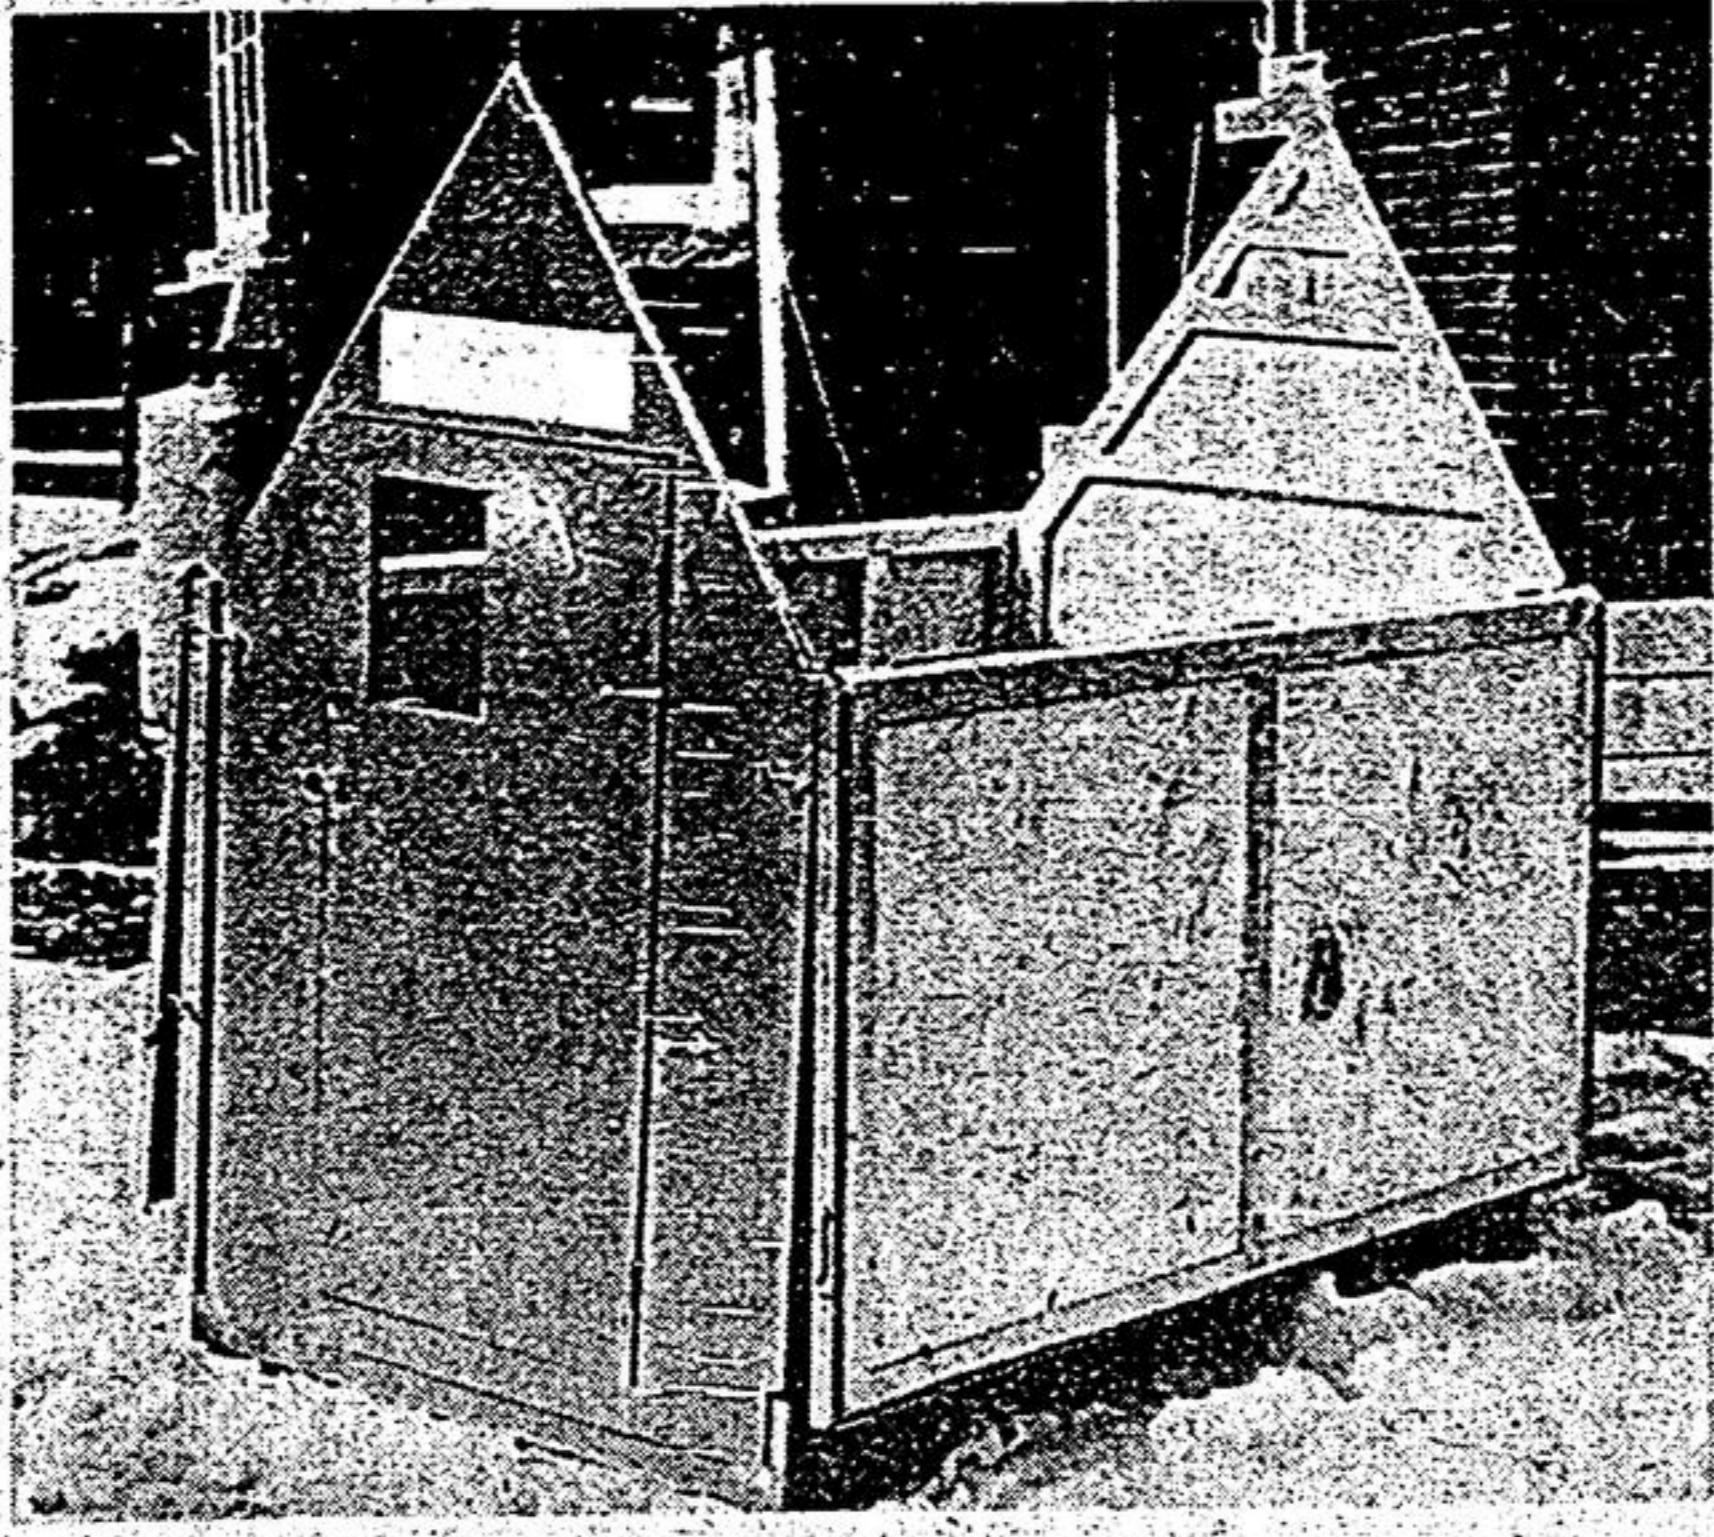

MARKHAM — The ice-fishing season on Lake Simcoe is now over and Alfred Maynard, Main Street North in Markham has collapsed his collapsible fish hut and stored it away for the summer. But it won't be stored away for long. Children in the area are already eyeing it as an ideal playhouse, and if they don't claim it, Mr. Maynard will use it for a toolshed. The unique structure measures 3 feet by 5 feet and weighs approximately 100 pounds. It took 18 hours to build. It is lined with Starfoam and can be easily heated with a small Coleman stove.

"The great thing about it, I can go fishing whenever I want to. When I'm not catching anything, I just fold it up and move to another spot. It's not like the old hut, that would freeze in the ice and have to stay all winter," said Mr. Maynard.

Mr. Maynard said he would be willing to help any ice fisherman build his own collapsible hut or show him how one could be put together. He estimated the cost at between $30 and $40.

First, the roof comes off and then the sides are unhooked. It weighs only 100 pounds and was built for $40.

In a matter of minutes, this is all that remains. He can easily transport it to and from the lake in the trunk of his car. —Staff Photos.

Do Better Grade Pupils Make Better Drivers?

Yes indeed. Dramatically better according to accident records compiled by a large insurance corporation.

In studies of drivers under age 25, students with superior scholastic records averaged 348 car damage claims per year per 1000 policies in force compared with 498 for students with inferior grades.

In accidents involving injuries, "good student" drivers were involved an average of 23.5 times annually per 1000 policies in force. Students with inferior grades had 29.7 accidents per 1000 policies in force.

Combining frequency and cost of accidents, "Good student drivers had a record 25 to 30 percent better than their counterparts."

Forty percent of the country's population is under 20 years of age and in some areas as much as 25 percent of the teenage population own their own cars.

Seventy percent of youthful drivers — including those in our locality — purchase used cars in preference to new and over 40 percent with their own money.

Youthful and inexperienced buyers are too often attracted to a shiny late-model body hiding a worn-out vehicle and should seek adult advice on a reputable service-minded dealer.

Price is only one part of the picture that includes the true mechanical condition, the unused mileage left in the car and the safety with which it may be driven under conditions that youthful drivers demand.
