ering, used her reverse psychology to win a Pan-American Games silver medal for Canada in the women's 10-metre tower

The blond Pickering girl, less than a month into her 16th-year, came through with the best dive of the entire competition in the last dive of the competition to move from bronze to silver.

She did it with a forward one-and-a-half, twotwist from free position with degree of difficulty 2.6, which is highly technical information that a football fan would appreciate if he knew what it .

Bev, last of six girls in the competition, took her position on the tower, facing an impossible take of Beverley Boys, of Pick- beating Lesley Bush of the United States, which she didn't. But a marking of 78.70 could squeeze Bev past another American, Ann Peterson.

... When the judges flashed their scores, it came out to 102.70 -the best mark of the competition in any dive and the only mark posted in the century bracket.

"In a meet like this," said Bev, "you do your worst dive first and save your best for last. You can't do that in the Olympics. There you have to do your best first, just to qualify because there are so many good ones."

It's back to work now. Bey has to learn two new dives in two weeks to compete in the U.S. Nationals. They have nine dives there instead of the usual seven:

The law recognizes the fact that children are not responsible for their acts in the broad sense that adults are. They dash out on a road without looking, despite dozens of warnings from anxious parents. Caution and carefree youth have a difficult time together. That's why school zones have extra low speed limits usually rigidly enforced.

When school is out for the summer, school zones are spread out everywhere children roam. So if you see children playing on the road, slow up well in advance and give them a wide berth when you do pass.

In the United States there is a death on the highway every 13 minutes and an injury every 23 seconds. At this rate, one out of every two Americans faces the prospect of being killed or injured in a traffic accident during his lifetime.

The most tragic of these accidents are those involving children who are killed or crippled before their life. has hardly begun. To lose a little time on the chance. of saving a little life are odds that any motorist would
