Pigeons most popular

By MOLLIE STEWART MARKHAM—For three year old Billie Jenei, pet shows are the greatest thing. And when the Markham Pets and Poultry Association held a Challenge Show at the Markham

Community Centre last Sunday Billie was there with his pet Jacobin. In case there's any doubt as to whether a Jacobin is a fowl or furniture — it's a pigeon. Even though Billie's pig-pen never placed at all as a winner he had a lot of fun. With so many cochins, rabbits, guinea pigs and odd shaped birds on hand, the show was of huge interest to old and young. There were several entries which had been previous champions. A black Longshan owned by Bert Smith had been a grand champion at the Richmond Hill and Brampton Shows. While John Chapman's Silver Bearded Polish stole the show at the C.N.E. and Royal Winter Poultry Fair, other champions belonged to Harry Rice, King City. "If it wasn't for the pure bred stock there would be a deterioration of the hybrids
