Mr. and Mrs. John Foster

Wed in double-ring ceremony

GREENBANK
 Greenbank United Church was seasonally decorated for the pretty wedding, Dec. 21, 1968 of Shirley Anne Rodd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Rodd, Greenbank, to John Frederick Foster of Whitby.

Rev. David Harris performed the double-ring ceremony. Given in marriage by her father, the bride was escorted up the candlelit aisle wearing a beautiful floor-length gown of silk organza and chantilly lace. A bouffant skirt formed a train at the back and the lace bodice was embroidered with seed pearls and rhinestones. Her shoulder-length veil was crowned with a rose petalled headpiece. She carried a white Bible adorned with roses.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Marilyn Beacock, sister of the bride. The bridesmaids were Miss Marilyn McMillan, Seagrave; Miss Janice Stiner, Toronto and Mrs. Betty Hopkins, Claremont. Miss Jodi Hopkins was the charming flower girl. The attendants were identically dressed in floor-length gowns of red velvet. On their white fur muffs, they carried poinsettias and sprigs of holly.

The groom's brother, Ronald Holman, Whitby, was best man. Ushers were Keith Rodd, Greenbank; Michael Vizey, Oshawa and Terrance Hopkins, Claremont. During the ceremony, Miss Cheryl Paradine sang "O Holy Night" and "The Wedding Hymn." She was accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Joan Lee.

Mr. and Mrs. John Frederick Foster, married December 21, 1968 in Greenbank United Church.

The bride's mother received her guests wearing a wool lace stroller-length ensemble in pink orchid. The groom's mother was attired in an azure blue gown. Both dresses were complemented with white gardenias. Following an enjoyable dinner, the wedding dance and buffet lunch was held in the Greenbank Centennial Hall. For their honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls the bride chose a red wool stroller suit with a white fox collar and black patent accessories. The happy couple are now residing at 171 Union Avenue, Port Perry.

Baptismal service

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Burkholder, Mr. and Mrs. Don Raymer and sons, were among those who attended the Baptismal Service, Sunday, in St. Paul's United Church, Ajax, when their little grandniece, Jody Lynn Adams, baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Adams, was christened. Also present were the baby's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Brennan of Ajax and Mr.

and Mrs. D. Adams of Oshawa. A buffet luncheon was enjoyed by all at the home of the parents after the service. A family dinner at the home of Mrs. Fred Morrison of Beaverton, Sunday, included Mr. and Mrs. Fred Timbers, Main Street East, Mr. and Mrs. Win Timbers, Stouffville, Mrs. Frank Timbers, Markham,

From the minister's study

By V. G. Shillington

Valentine's Day is my day! I would rather not tell you why, but I will give you a clue. Just take a look at the initials at the top of this article.

I think the girls are the ones who perpetuate this special day more than the rest of us. Perhaps it's because they crave love more than the men. But before we get to the business of love, let's do a little thinking about "the heart."

If we want to express our deep emotion of love toward another person, usually of the opposite sex, we say "I love you with all MY HEART." I don't suppose we can improve that expression much. Yet it's interesting to see how people of other cultures express the same emotion.

We had two Indian friends at our church, and afterwards we chatted over a cup of coffee. These two, Mr. George and Mr. Sam, left their wives in India while they received special training here in Canada. During the course of our conversation, Mr. Sam gave us some idea of their expressions of love in India. He said, "If I want to let my wife know how much I love her I would say to her, 'you are my little liver.'" Well, that's the way cultures are I guess.

Never mind, I think our idea of the heart is best, don't you? I just can't picture any Canadian male telling his beloved that he loves her with all his liver.

But what about this business of love? One song I heard on my way to Toronto this morning had this message: "We're dedicated to love, my baby and me." It sounds wonderful except that it still doesn't tell much about what love is. I wonder what do teens think about love this Valentine's Day? They talk a lot about being in love, but that doesn't mean much because very often they are out of it by sunrise the next morning.

Real love is not sex, either, as some would like us to think.

What is true love then? It is giving, giving of a particular kind. First, the giving of yourself to God in faith, and secondly, the giving of yourself to the person next to you in help. Make this the main thrust of your love this Valentine's Day, and all the other loves will be added on to you in full measure.

Don't Let Your Eyes Fool You

As the old saying goes — "Seeing is believing" — and it was never more true, or vital, than when you're driving. The armed forces, universities and industry researchers working on cutting down accidents say it is the way many drivers use their eyes that causes them to "miss seeing" oncoming vehicles. You may have had the experience yourself while pulling out from a parking space, or passing an intersection. Suddenly, as if out of nowhere, another car is just THERE. You thought you looked and yet saw nothing. Your eyes momentarily fooled you. What happens in such cases is that we use too much of our "peripheral" or side vision instead of looking at the source of danger directly through our clear central vision. Look directly, left to right, and through the rear view mirror for rear approaches when caution demands it. It's sound practice, too, to keep your eyes moving, especially at night when they have a tendency to stare. And sight beyond the headlights for shapes if the visibility is poor. And next to your own eyes, watch the eyes of pedestrians and other drivers. They're keys to where they might move unexpectedly. Safety checks show that almost thirty percent of all headlights are improperly aimed, resulting in strain to oncoming cars and reduced vision for the driver. If you are in doubt about your lights, bring your car in for a check. If they need reaiming, the charge is very nominal. Markham Chrysler-Dodge No. 7 Hwy. & Laidlaw Blvd. Phone 294-4111

Mr. and Mrs. Bryce Atkinson of Montreal spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Bill Walden, Manitoba Street. Then on Friday they all went to Lindsay for a weekend visit with their parents.
