E. York plowmen may drop match

MARKHAM TWP. — The rapid sale of farms in Markham Township may force the East York Plowmen's Association to disband.

A decision on the future of the organization will be made at a meeting of directors this week. The president for 1969 is Donald Ferguson of Stouffville.

At an earlier meeting, June 16, at the home of the president, it had been hoped to come to some conclusion concerning a match this fall. Due to the absence of several executive members, it was agreed to meet again.

1st vice-president, Trevor Watson said that the directors could come to any one of three decisions — attempt to carry on; disband entirely or join with the association in North York. He admitted that with only .59c in the local treasury, the North York executive hadn't exactly welcomed them with open arms. Representatives Fred Timbers, Grant Wells and Bill Simpson attended to sit in on the discussion.

Mr. Watson said he personally favored amalgamation of the two branches with the possibility that King and Vaughan could be included. "We should have gone together ten years ago," he said. "It may be too late now." He noted that there were eight or ten members in the East York branch who wished to continue in some capacity. He said that the South Ontario Association was experiencing a similar problem.

North York president Floyd Forsyth said that the initial move toward amalgamation of the two associations should come from their neighbors. A site for the North York match will be finalized at a meeting in the Agricultural Offices, Newmarket, July 28.

Despite disappointments

Haylage system is sound

A. A. Wall, Agricultural Representative for York County.

YORK CTY. — Farmers with silos and taking off hay as haylage are ahead of the game this year. They haven't had the agonizing experience of seeing their early cut hay slowly spoil in wet weather.

This is a good year to try haylage for feeding later in the summer or for next winter. More feed value is preserved with haylage than any other system, and it mechanizes better too.

Summer production can be held better with haylage, protein costs can be cut, and it balances nicely with our popular grains, barley and corn.

There's nearly always some joker in the crowd that throws cold water on my haylage story, by saying that if the stuff is so darn good, why are so many farmers still 'horsing' bales around.

The answer is that a fair number of people who have tried haylage have been a little disappointed. The problem has been the result of one or more of the rules being broken.

It's a great system but the rules are different than they are for either hay or corn silage. Unlike hay, it has to be cut early, it has to be put in wet, it has to be chopped short, it has to be put in fast, and it has to be well packed.

Unlike corn silage, it won't keep well in a poor silo, stack, or hole in the ground, and the rate of grain has to be increased in the feeding program. Stale haylage left over in the feed bunk will also sour a cow's appetite more than corn will.

So the rules for haylage are a lot tighter, but they certainly aren't beyond any good farmer in York County. And with more cows, less labor, and rotten haying weather, the haylage system is sound.
