

Pumpkin patch raided by vandals

By Eleanor Todd
GOODWOOD — Person or persons unknown entered Tindall's corn patch and left corn strewn all over the highway. A cob of corn was pitched through the front window of Bell's store. Another cob was used to break a window in Jack McGrath's car. Someone siphoned the gas out of Gary St. John's car and George Jones' truck was tampered with the same night. Kids entered Mr. and Mrs. Grasser's pumpkin patch and smashed every pumpkin. Kids entered the church yard and let the air out of several tires while a community shower was in progress. All this happened within the last couple of weeks. Over a longer period of time some of the youth in our community have been amusing themselves by tearing down the buildings in our park, one board at a time. The new slide was damaged. The toilets have been pushed over several times.

If we, as parents, are unable to teach our young people to have respect for the property of others, then it's time we put up the money to hire a township police force to discourage such activities. And maybe, while they are at it, they can nab a few gravel trucks for overloading on our Class B roads. Who knows, we might even collect enough in fines to pay their salaries.

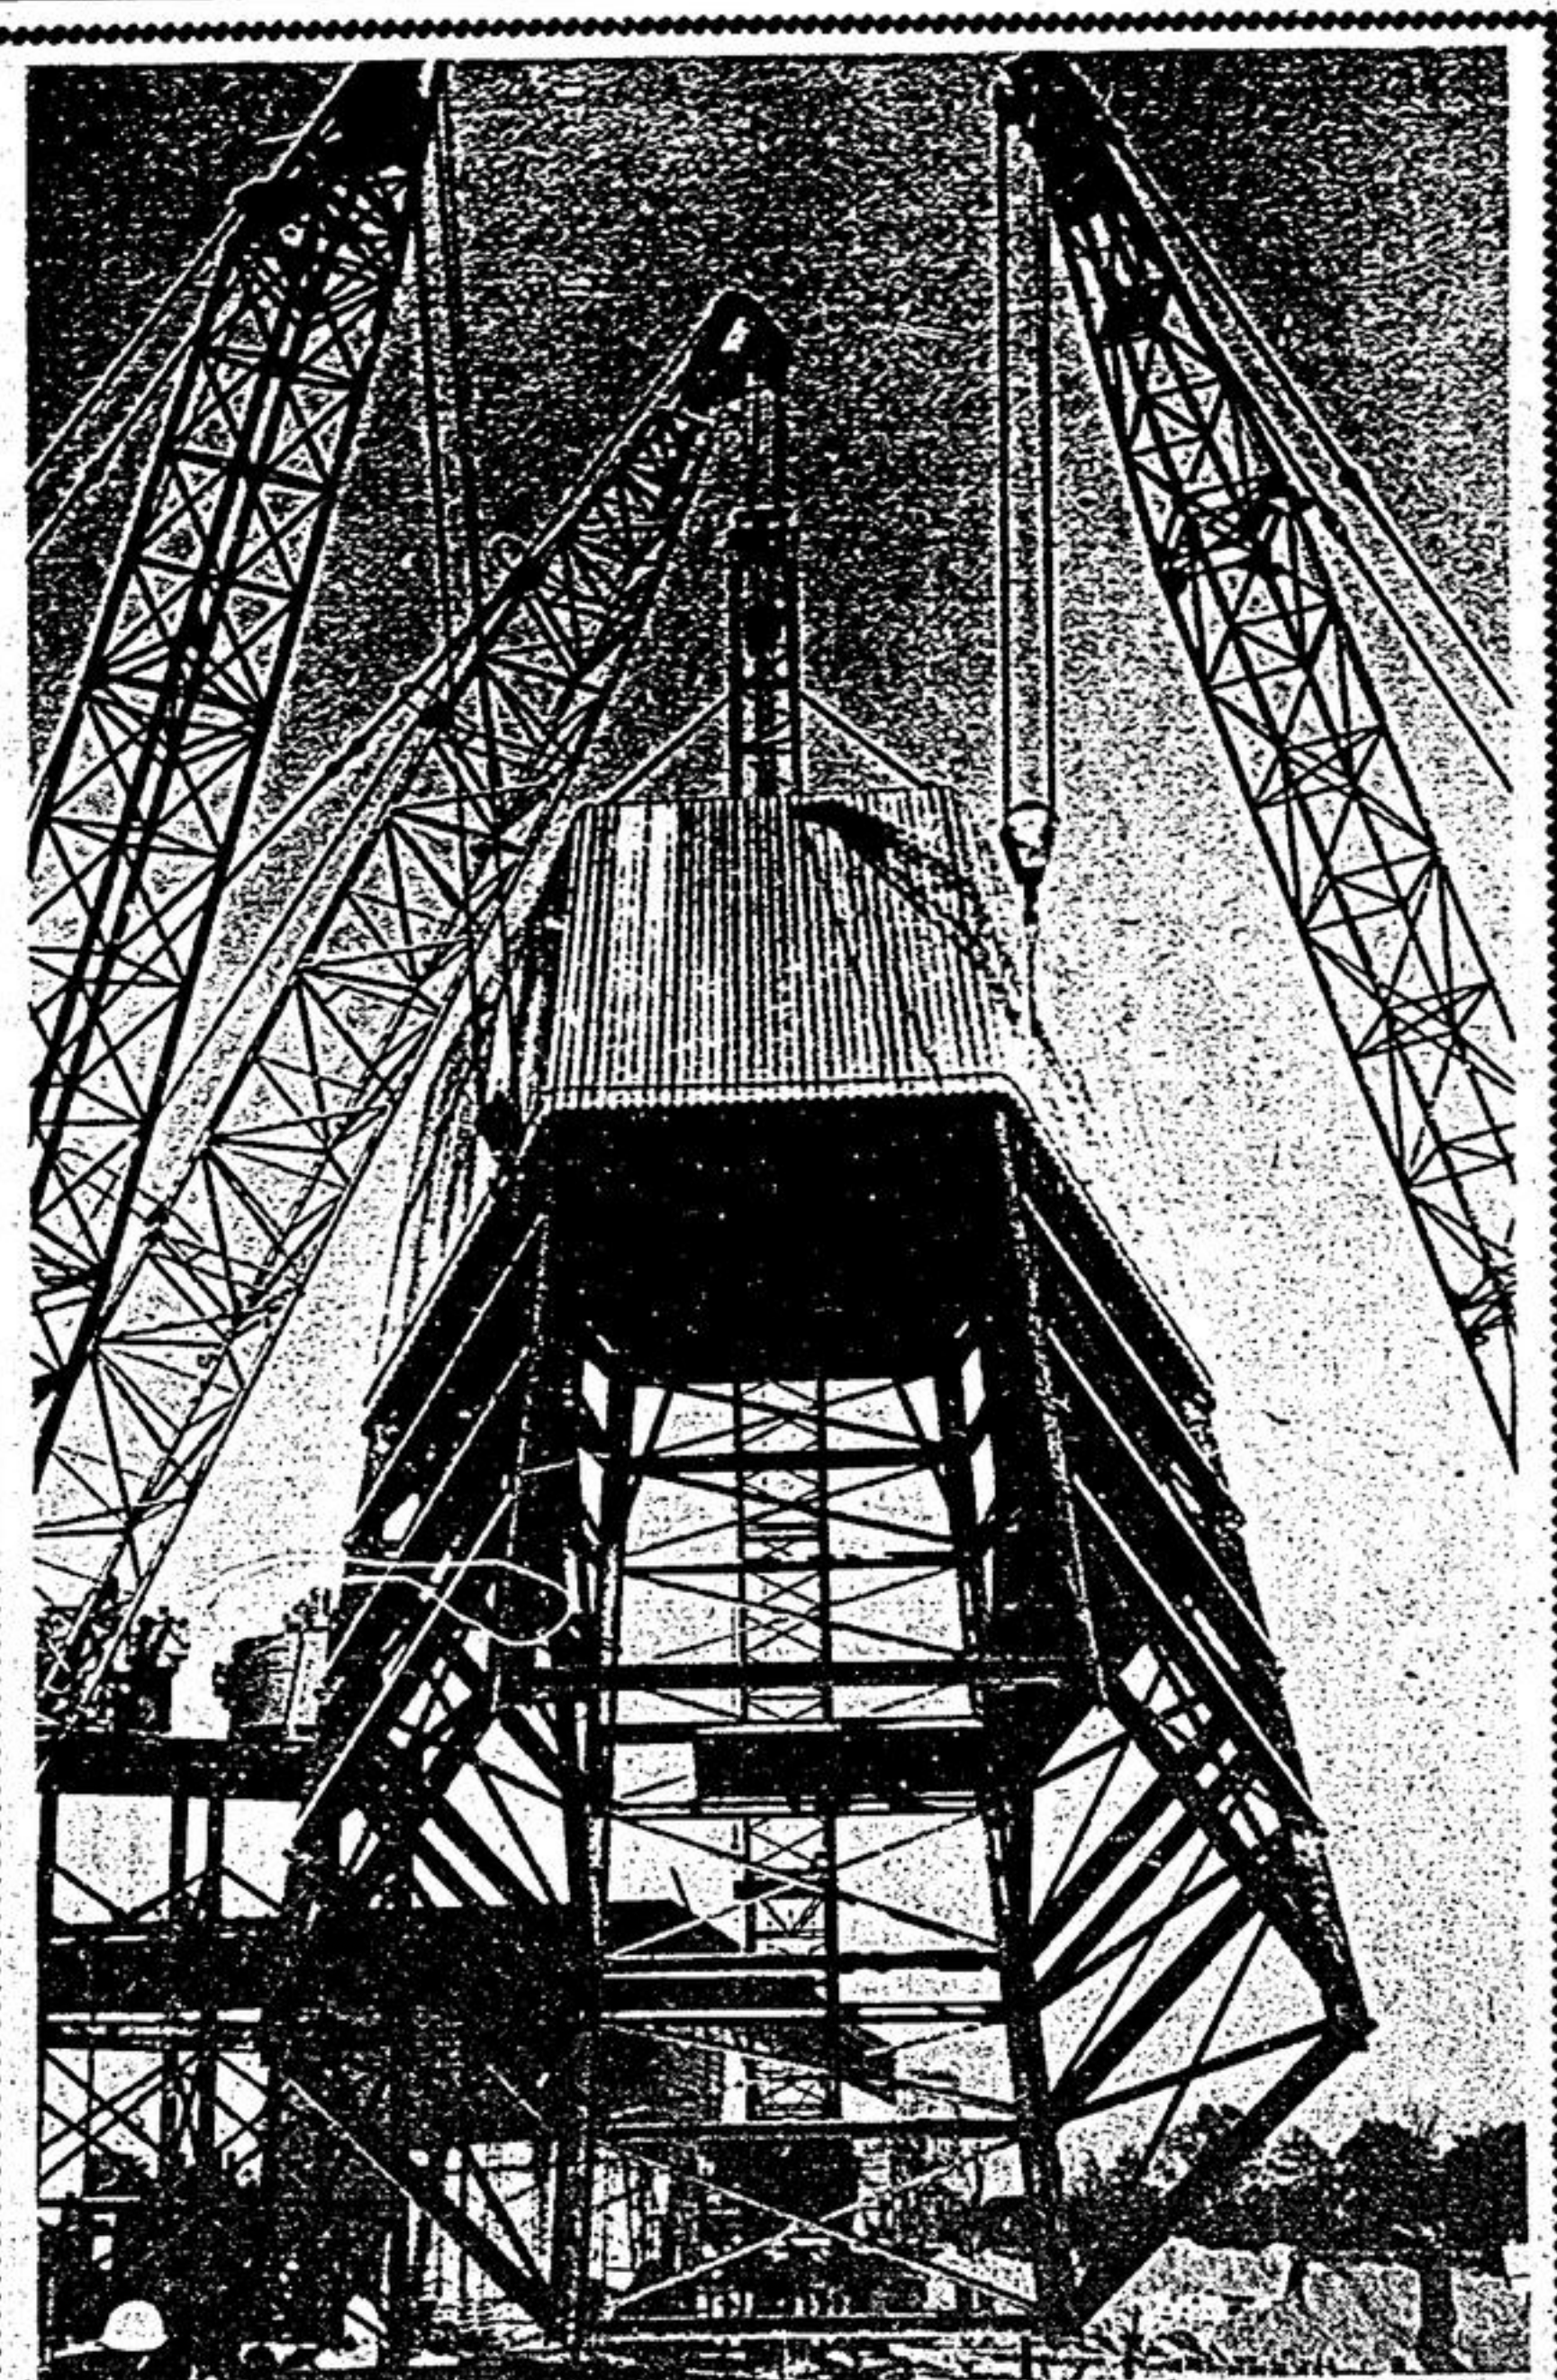

Mr. Charlie Symes is wearing his arm in a sling since undergoing an ulnar nerve transplant of the elbow. He expects to be back at work in a couple of weeks.

Mr. Bob Pattenden has returned home from a successful hunting trip in the Thessalon area. He shot a moose.

Several couples from Goodwood drove over to Club Annrene Saturday night to dance to the music of Walter and Sandy Taylor. Their group is excellent.

Alvin and Fern Redshaw have returned home last week from a trip to Edmonton. They were attending the Canadian Good Roads Convention.

land where the ladies have relatives. They stopped for awhile in France and Belgium and are now sight-seeing in England before returning home.

The ladies of Goodwood Women's Institute operated a booth at Scott Fair this year and earned over $150. Some of them entered samples of their handiwork in the Women's Section of the fair. Mrs. Irene Tindall earned several prizes. Mrs. Rita Jones won second prize for her work in liquid embroidery on glass and third prize for her quilt blocks. Her daughter, Lorrie, won first for her crewel work place mats. Mrs. Barbara St. John won a first and a second prize for her pickles.

Les and Mary Mitchell attended the wedding of her cousin, Mr. Gordon Wilson, at the Old Mill in Etobicoke, Saturday, and Mrs. Joe Cooper of York Manor spent Sunday with them.

Percy and Jean Pugh drove to Elk Lake on the weekend to visit the Howard Johnson family.

Next Saturday, Oct. 18, will be busy with lots of things happening. There is the L.O.B.A. Anniversary Banquet, Holly Boland's wedding, Harold Dickenson's sale, Claude Watson's Snomobile Club meeting, and the community shower for Joyce Bunker.

Smoking at social functions within the framework of the church has become quite acceptable in recent years, especially in larger centres, and it has at least been tolerated in some rural areas. Until last week this smoker saw nothing disrespectful about it but we are never too old to learn, and after seeing the air turn positively blue

Ban barbeques next?

MARKHAM — Members of Markham Town Council have raised strong objection, to a letter from the Ontario Department of Energy and Resources. It cited regulations outlawing the burning of waste materials in other than provincially approved incinerators.

The letter went on to say that it was illegal to cause any smoke or odour that would disturb other residents. Mayor Walker was strong in her convictions about the matter. "The way this is carrying on, you won't even be able to have a barbeque," she said.

Councillor Walter Grieve said that he could not go along with the suggestion.
