From the minister's study

By V. G. Shillington
Money is not the root of all evil no matter what people say! No doubt there are economic problems in the country varying from inflation, speculation and high interest rates to poverty. Quite a mixture when you think of it. I do not pretend for a minute that this short article will solve all our financial worries, but I do think there is an angle that is out of focus when this subject of money comes up.
Is money evil? It would be easy yet superficial to answer "yes". Matter in any form is not evil, whether it is a piece of granite, a cup of tea or a crisp, new 'green back'. Money as a medium of exchange offers us a convenient way of living. A man renders a service and in return receives money. With that money he obtains food for his family. The cycle goes on. If we could reduce the money problem to such simple terms our troubles would be minimal indeed.
Let's see if we can get to the root of the matter. The heart of the problem in money matters lies within our own nature. The little pieces of paper we insert in our wallets are quite worthless in themselves. The value of the money in the end is calculated in terms of our attitude towards it.
When we make another deal, bank another grand, work another day we feel as if we have answered our basic questions: What pleasures can I gain from this? How much security and independence have I acquired now? How long will I live to enjoy this? If you look closely at those questions you will detect the symptoms of a sickness one man chooses to call, "money fever". It is as dangerous as it is contagious.
Asking these questions really points to the source of our greatest problem today: Independence from God. The more money we have, the more we can show God that we don't need Him. We can have a good time without Him. We can feel safe on our own. We can live a life of freedom. Many people think this way, and they live the way they think.
A glaring contradiction needs to be exposed. People in all walks of life are caught up in the money fever as if they were planning to live forever with their money. The obvious truth is that "we brought nothing into this world, and it is certain we can carry nothing out". Obvious, yes, but not heeded. When we allow the truth that "godliness with contentment is great gain" to saturate our lives, we will also find that it unites homes, stabilizes nations, ends wars and cures the money fever.

Late Walter Gray Served 16 years on rural bread route

STOUFFVILLE — For a period of 16 years, Walter Gray, then an employee of the Stouffville Bakery, delivered bread from door to door, over a route that covered many miles each day.
He did it first by horse team and then by truck, making friends among the farm folk wherever he went.
On Jan. 21, Mr. Gray passed away suddenly in Scarborough Centenary Hospital. News of his death was received with sadness, both in Markham where he had lived for the past five years and in Stouffville, where he was well known.
Mr. Gray was born in Markham Township, an only child of Richard and Esther Gray. After leaving the employ of the Bakery, he farmed at Lemonville on property now owned by Clifford Winger. He retired in 1954, building a new home in the community and later moving to Sherwood Forest Drive.
Surviving, besides his wife, the former Mary Brown, are five daughters, Earla (Mrs. Carl Wideman); Norma (Mrs. Les Leonard) and Meryl (Mrs. Albert Hudson) all of Stouffville; Darline (Mrs. Grant Wideman) Markham and Elda (Mrs. Harold Knight) a missionary in Nigeria, West Africa. There are 14 grandchildren.
Mr. Gray was a member of the Stouffville Missionary Church and served on the managerial board of Youthtime Radio.
The service, Saturday afternoon, was held from the church with a former pastor, Rev. Arthur Walsh in charge assisted by Rev. Norman Rowan and Rev. John Hamilton. Interment is in the Stouffville Cemetery. While floral tributes were lovely, many donations were also received in support of the Missionary Fund and the Gideons, a family request. Pall bearers were — Lloyd Wideman, Ira Burkholder, Fred Crossen, Clifford Winger, Lloyd Hoover and Harry Stover.

Stouffville High School - 1930

Late Leo Wagg
STOUFFVILLE — Rev. Gordon Gooderham conducted the service, Jan. 22 from the O'Neill Funeral Home for Mr. Leo Stafford Wagg who passed away suddenly at his Mill Street home, Jan. 20. He would have been 72, Feb. 7.
Born the son of James Wagg, lot 6, concession 9, Whitchurch, Mr. Wagg remained a lifelong resident of Stouffville.
On March 23, 1946, he was married to Leone Rose Lazenby who survives along with two sons, Percy and Neil and one daughter, Shirley (Mrs. Lynn Smith). He has a brother, Vince and one sister, Mrs. Redia Snowball.
Mr. Wagg was extremely proud of his family and lived to see all three graduate together from Stouffville District Secondary School.
Prior to retirement,
