

I.G.A. joins price war

STOUFFVILLE - I.G.A., the largest group of organized independent food retailers, counter attacks the corporate chains this week with discount prices combined with service which only an independent can provide.

"The corporate chains simply are not going to price the organized independents out of business with any so-called price war," said Dan Madsen, owner of Stouffville I.G.A.

Mr. Madsen said the independent who operates his own store offers an additional plus that the consumer can't get anywhere else - "personal service and consideration for the individual needs of his customer. You just don't get that from chain store employees."

Respected residents

BUTTONVILLE - The community extends sympathy to Bill and Mary McArthur, David and Bruce in their recent loss of a mother and grandmother.

Mrs. Roderick McArthur had lived at Unionville for many years until her health failed. She came to the McArthur's Perth Avenue home in late summer. She became ill and was taken to St. Michael's Hospital a few days before her death, Nov. 16. She was in her 83rd year. A service was held Thursday afternoon, Nov. 19, at the Dixon Funeral Home, Markham, with interment at Elmwood Cemetery. Surviving are daughters Mary, (Mrs. M. Hawkins); Joan, (Mrs. J. Kaut), both of Ohio; Roderick of Markham and William of Buttonville as well as eight grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Friends were sorry to learn of the death of Mrs. Will Young Monday, Nov. 16. The Youngs farmed for many years on 16th Avenue near the 5th concession.

On Friday evening at Buttonville W.I. Hall when the final game in the present euchre series was played, the grand winner was Mrs. Russell Burr. Winners for the evening were Mrs. R. Brillinger, Mrs. H. Swain, Mrs. B. Thompson, Mrs. Sandra Mills, J. Warwick, Walter Craig, A. Rennie and R. Riseborough.

Retain Siloam Community Centre

UXBRIDGE TWP. - The Siloam Community Centre has not been abandoned, as reported in The Tribune of Nov. 12.

Rather, it will be operated strictly as a local venture, without assistance from the Province.

Chairman Bev Beach explained that to meet requirements under the Provincial Community Centres Act would have resulted in disqualification of some members.

"The amount of money we would have gained through grants would not be worth the breakup of the committee," he said.

He said the Centre would operate just as it had since taken over a year ago. The site is the former Siloam public school.

Besides Mr. Beach, the committee includes - Mrs. Marjorie Matthews, Hartley Spinney, Keith Wallace and Klaus Wassenaue.

Brian Kessel, 19, was arrested following a police investigation into the removal of goods from the Canadian Tire Store in Markham.

Evidence revealed the store manager found a quantity of merchandise in the washroom and noticed the lock on the window had been changed.

The next day, some of the merchandise had been removed. Police were called and questioned the accused.

The property, a set of shock absorbers, was recovered under a bush at the rear of the store.
