Quaker Hill Museum Steam Show

Jr. plowing match
UXBRIDGE TWP. - The sounds will be chug, chug; chug and puff, puff, puff, Aug. 25, when the Uxbridge-Scott Historical Society presents its second annual Steam and Antique Show, on the grounds of the Quaker Hill Museum.

The location is one mile west of Uxbridge Town, and a quarter mile north. The starting time is 1:30 p.m.

Features will include a pre-1900 threshing machine (in operation); steam engines, gas tractors, antique cars and other pieces of antique machinery.

Activities will extend over into Sunday, Aug. 26. The Museum, once the Quaker Hill school, will be open to the public. Admission is $1 for adults and .50 for children.

Fire account 'burns' council

UXBRIDGE TWP. - A fire which flared up on lot 16, conc. 5, Uxbridge Twp., sparked municipal irritation at the activities of the people using the park property, and the inactivity of the Ontario County Health Unit.

Reeve Bob Nesbitt informed Dr. J.E. Watt, Director of O.C.H.U., that a fire, apparently set to burn garbage on Sunday, July 22, smouldered and spread to a nearby stump fence later in the week. The fire brigade was called by neighbors. About 30 feet of fence was burned out and the Township was presented with a $200 account for the fire-fighting service. The bill, the reeve said, would be forwarded to the owner of the property, an ethnic group who use the park for social gatherings on weekends. Incineration of garbage there, he added, was a Sunday ritual and, despite requests to the Health Unit to investigate and report on the situation, there had been no surveillance.

"Do they have the right to burn garbage?" he questioned the doctor. "If they do, why the hell are we paying for a place out here to dump our garbage?"

Dr. Watt, though reasoning that his department couldn't be everywhere, assured the reeve that garbage disposal and other sanitary conditions at the park would be immediately investigated now that he was aware of the complaints.
