"The New Testament Local Church its Mission and its Message"

Seeks regional post

PICKERING TWP. — A "learning period" the first year and active participation the second, is the way Ward 3 councillor Jack Anderson describes his two years in office.

He feels he now has the experience to represent the Ward as a regional councillor under the new system of regional government.

His only opponent is Mrs. Gwen Mowbray of Kinsale. The election date is Monday, Oct. 1.

Councillor Anderson, a resident at Claremont, R.R.3, points to his record that, he feels has benefited rate-payers not only in the rural area of Pickering Township, but the municipality as a whole.

Resolutions include the utilizing of funds from the sale of Community Centres at Altona and Atha to assist Community Centres at Claremont, Mt. Zion and Greenwood; the re-opening of negotiations on the Metro garbage disposal problem; and free transportation for all senior citizens (over 65) on the township's dial-a-bus system.

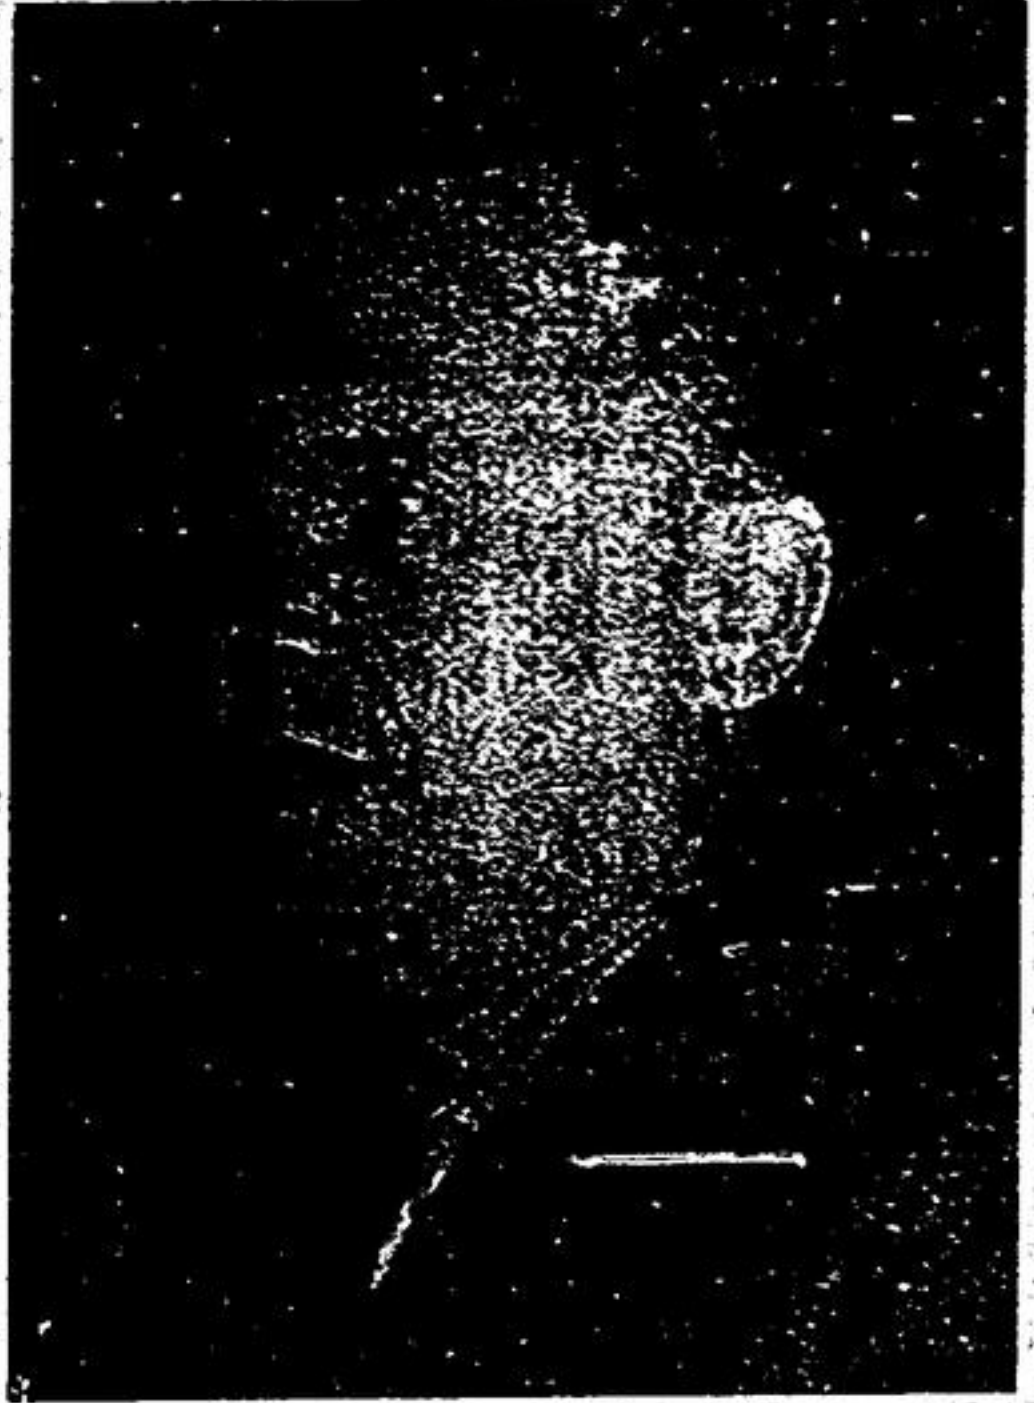

Mr. Anderson is a member of the review board, investigating government offers on expropriated lands.

In this same connection, he supports a tighter security system on properties within the Airport area, a proposal that has already been established by federal authorities. He feels something similar will be set up in the Cedarwood district by Queen's Park.

"There's just no way the O.P.P. can do the job," he said.

Councillor Anderson readily admits he doesn't wholly endorse the regional scheme but "we've got it, so we might just as well make the best of it."

Unappreciative house guest

MARKHAM — Paul Thomson and his wife shared their home at R.R.1, Markham, with a Kitchener man.

On their return to the residence, Sept. 11, they found the stove and dishwasher missing. York Regional Police were called. They, in turn, notified authorities in Kitchener, and the suspect's house was searched.

Both appliances were recovered.
