Wins new car or cash

STOUFFVILLE — "I couldn't believe it," said 87-year-old Oliver Madill of Boyer Street, in recalling the news, Sunday morning, that he was the first prize winner in the Lions Club Car Draw, Saturday night. He can choose between a 1974 Chevrolet or Pontiac or $2,500 cash.

Mr. Madill said he was walking down the street one day and saw a sign advertising the Draw in a window at the Bank of Nova Scotia. "I thought I'd help the Lions out a little," he remembers. He purchased the ticket from the branch manager, Paul Roney. It was the last of 650 to be selected.

Mrs. Percy Brown, niece of Mr. Madill, took the call around midnight. Her uncle was sound asleep by then, (he resides with them) so she waited until morning.

While Oliver Madill's ticket hit the jackpot, eighteen others were also in the money.

Harvey Pipher of Ringwood was the first runner-up and wins $100. Realtor Lloyd Houghton of Stouffville was second runner-up and receives $50. Peter Orclio had his ticket drawn first and wins $50.

Paul Roney receives $50 for selling Mr. Madill the $2,500 ticket. Ed MacAloney was again the Club's super salesman and receives a similar commission. Bert Taylor was the runner-up in sales.

Twenty-five dollar consolation winners were Herb Cossey, Stouffville; Ernie Conner, Rexleigh Drive; Frank White, Claremont; N. A. Taylor, Aurora; Wm. Lee, Rexdale; Walter Drewery, Stouffville.

Vandorf lady killed

VANDORF — A tragic accident, Nov. 1, on the Don Mills Road in Vandorf, took the life of a much-loved, and highly-respected resident.

Bertha Dewsbury was struck down as she attempted to cross the highway to pick up her mail. He died a short time later in hospital. She was 80.

The deceased, wife of the late Harlton Dewsbury, was born in Stouffville, but regarded as a native of the Vandorf community, since she had lived there from an early age.

She was a very active and independent person who enjoyed keeping busy, whether the task was babysitting for a family friend or relative or tending to her house. She also possessed great knowledge of the area and maintained a scrapbook on local events. "If anyone wanted to know anything, they came to see Grandma," said Susan (Mrs. Frank Pattenden), a granddaughter. She was a member of the Wesley United Church and a life member of the Women's Institute.

Doreen Rusnell, Toronto; Grace Eddington, Stouffville; A. Lentinello, Toronto; Leo Egberts, Stouffville; Dave Ratcliff, Stouffville; and Bruce Redshaw, Claremont.

Sheep flock ravaged

PICKERING TWP. — Nine sheep were found dead and one so badly mutilated it may have to be killed, when the owner visited his ranch property on Salem Road, Pickering Twp., Monday.

The loss was half the flock pastured on the property of Ralph Hoar of R. R. 1, Brooklin. Dogs are blamed for the slaughter.

However, police were out in force and this, plus inclement weather, may have served as a deterrent to trouble. Spot checks of cars were carried out in many areas and several were found to contain rotten eggs and tomatoes, Staff Inspector Wally Harkness told The Tribune.

While the soaping of windows is an inoffensive practice, the game was carried to the extreme at the residence of Freeman Parker, Markham Road, Richmond Hill. There, a bar of soap was thrown through the glass.

In Stouffville, three young people were arrested on Main Street for using profane language. They are charged with causing a disturbance.

Entry was gained to the recently-opened Ballantrae School. Several rooms were ransacked and $30 in cash stolen.

At the Annab's Wholesale Nursery, No. 7 Hwy. Unionville, a plastic cover was slashed and brown paint sprayed over a section of one greenhouse. At the premises of Miller Paving Limited, Miller Ave., Markham, tools and equipment, valued at $350, were stolen.

Spirits 'dampened'

STOUFFVILLE — It was a quiet Halloween in Stouffville and pretty well the same story across the Region.

Praise for police

STOUFFVILLE — On occasions, York Regional Police have come in for criticism concerning protection (or lack of it) in the former village of Stouffville. Not so, Halloween Night.

Several called The Tribune, Thursday, to express appreciation, and also to commend the young people for their conduct. One of these was Doug Neville, of a Neville Appliances, Main Street. "We're quick to criticize," he said, "this time, the police deserve credit." He agreed that spot checks of cars entering town served a good purpose. "They stopped the trouble before it started," he concluded.

Industrial Park site planned near Gormley

GORMLEY — The anticipated purchase of an 89-acre property west of Don Mills Road and north of Gormley, could result in the development of Whitchurch-Stouffville's first Industrial Park.

The site, known to many as the former Harold Doner farm, has been acquired by Superh Construction Company Limited at a reported price of just over $500,000.

Lawrence C. Hennessey, sales representative for Len Cassidy Realtor, Dundas Street West, Toronto, arranged the transaction that is expected to close in mid-February.

Mr. Hennessey, working in close co-operation with Town Planning Committee, said he hoped the municipality would provide a central road, leading from Don Mills to the rear of the Park. In this way, the plants, eighteen in number on five-acre lots, would front on a single entrance and exit.

No change in zoning is required, Mr. Hennessey said. The factories will be served by drilled wells and septic tanks.

Post Office

Rejected as future Library

STOUFFVILLE — The Library Development Committee has rejected the present Post Office at Main and Market Street, as a possible library site. Instead, they will approach Council for money to erect a new building at a central location in town.

The decision was reached at an emergency meeting, Nov. 1.

Earlier, the Town had agreed to provide sufficient land and $100,000, if the Board could obtain a like amount from the Winter Capital Projects Fund. However, the program was over-subscribed.

Reporting on behalf of the finance committee, Dr. Blair Mitchell said that due to an oversight, anticipated grant receipts would be short by $97,000. "We've decided the obvious solution is to go to Council for the entire amount." With reference to the Post Office, he called it "a dumb building that would make a dumb library at excessive cost."

John Langley said the Post Office could be available by October, 1974. He said the purchase price could range from one dollar to $75,000, plus renovations that would be high. He suggested that if the government was planning to erect a new structure, there must be something wrong with the building. He recommended that further investigations into this particular site be discontinued unless the Council forces the issue.

Other objections included lack of available parking; lack of aesthetic quality; and the short period it would be large enough to accommodate a growing service.

To prepare town's history

STOUFFVILLE — The former village of Stouffville will celebrate its 100th anniversary of incorporation, beginning Jan. 1, 1977.

That's less than 3 years and 2 months away.

One phase of this important occasion will be the preparation of a history extending back through the past 100 years.

A meeting for this purpose will be held Thursday, Nov. 15 at 8 p.m., in the town municipal building, Civic Street.

Driver aids traffic victim

STOUFFVILLE — An 18-year-old motorist had the presence of mind to apply mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to a pedestrian he struck down on Main Street, and earned the praise of witnesses at the scene. Peter Tsapotis of Toronto, was the driver of an eastbound car that hit 64-year-old Frank Jenkinson, R. R. 2, Claremont. Mr. Jenkinson is an employee of the Stouffville Branch of Whomsey Real Estate. The victim suffered a severe gash on the head and lost considerable blood. He is recovering in a Scarborough Centenary Hospital.

A day to remember

Truck driver risks life to avert highway crash

A gravel truck driver risked his life to avoid collision with a southbound car, Monday, and in doing so, caused an estimated $10,000 damage to his own vehicle. Cory Cornelisse, 29, of R. R. 1,

Claremont, swerved his transport off Hwy. 47, north of Stouffville, flipping the trailer on its side. No one was injured. —Jim Thomas
