Old-fashioned sleigh-ride is a new-found thrill

On Saturday, Alan and Esther Powell, 19th Avenue, Dickson's Hill treated the Sunday School children of St. James Presbyterian Church in Stouffville to a mid-winter party at their home. The afternoon's activities included an old-fashioned sleigh-ride with neighbor Paul Grove handling the reins. For many of the boys and girls, it was a first-time experience. Jim Thomas.

Voice of Bethel Need preparation

By Howard Minaker

An interesting news item this week was the account of the Swiss-Stouffville hockey game. This story eclipses in importance that of any other recent sports event.

Stouffville went all out to welcome these visitors - who soon became friends. Great preparation was made for their arrival and visit. Everyone feels that this interchange of friendship, sport and entertainment was a great success. It is quite evident that this town has the capability, enthusiasm and talent to go "all out". One writer to this paper looked on this event as "one in a lifetime".

This reminds me of another great occasion - one that also calls for preparation and enthusiasm. I refer to the challenge of Life, with its opportunities, commitments and rewards.

We live in a day when life seems more complicated than ever before. To be successful in the journey of life, calls for exceptional skill, determination and courage.

Who is to say when one is successful? Is there a way of living a useful life? Many religions have complicated this journey by asking questions, but providing no answers. There is, however, one Guide Book that gives the answer. It is a Book written by the finger of Almighty God. It tells why we are here, how we can be successful and what is the purpose of life.

I feel certain that this visit to Stouffville was a great event in the life of the members of the Swiss team. However, could you imagine their refusing travel information or scoffing at arrangements regarding their destination?

The same diligence we use in seeking and preparing for natural successes will bring success in finding Eternal Life. As the poet says, "I'd rather be just a poor beggar Live in a shack by the side of the road, Than here to have all of earth's treasure With no title to a future abode."

Over 300 skaters More than 300 attended the Old Tyme Skating Party in the Stouffville Arena, Jan. 12, sponsored by the Stouffville Figure Skating Club. Music for the occasion was provided by the East York Band. Spot prizes were donated by Les Wilson Motors, Card's Hardware and Hunt's Sunoco.
