Mr. and Mrs. Wilson reside on Sideline 28, Pickering, two miles south of conc. 9. Neighbors, friends and relatives are invited.

Service cancelled
The inter-denomination choir service, planned for the Stouffville United Church, Sunday, has been cancelled. The church organist, Mr. Alan Gent, underwent surgery recently, and is a patient in North York General Hospital on Leslie Street. Organizers plan to reschedule the worship, possibly in the fall.

Surgery
Mr. John Lang, Manitoba Street, is recovering from surgery in St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto.

Manager
Robert Wagg, Church Street South, is the new manager of Hathaway Bros. Paint and Wallpaper Store, Main Street.

Gun stolen
Peter Caron of Markham attended a 'Turkey Shoot' at a site east of Hwy. 48 in Markham, recently. It just wasn't his day, however. He didn't shoot a turkey and somebody ran off with his gun. A 39 year old Goodwood man has been charged with theft.

Father assists at ceremony

STOUFFVILLE
The Stouffville Missionary Church was beautifully decorated for the marriage of Judy Colleen Wilkinson, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. D. J. Wilkinson, Winlane Drive, Stouffville and Robert Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Brown, also of Stouffville.

Antique oil lamps, belonging to the groom's father, were placed in the auditorium for the 7 p.m. ceremony, along with baskets of daisies and bouquets of gold and yellow mums.

Rev. John Hamilton officiated, assisted by Rev. Wilkinson, the bride's father.

Faith Wilkinson was maid of honor for her sister. The bridesmaids were Mary McKensie, Ottawa; Ellie Fuller, St. Thomas and the groom's sister, Bonnie Brown of Stouffville.

Kenneth Leonard of Stouffville was best man for the groom. The ushers were Donald Tompkins, Paul Brethour and David Wilkinson, brother of the bride. Mrs. Don Sutherland of Stouffville presided at the organ.

The bride looked lovely in a floor-length gown with lace bodice and sleeves. She carried a traditional Australian satin horseshoe, a prized keepsake, passed down from her mother and great aunt. Her bouquet comprised yellow Talisman roses.

The bridesmaids' gowns were set apart in colors of mauve, yellow, green and blue. They carried hand bouquets of pink and yellow roses.

The reception followed in the lower auditorium of the church.

Out-of-town guests included, Mrs. Daisy Rankin, aunt of the bride from Thunder Bay and Mr. Norman Johnson, uncle of the bride from California.

Following a honeymoon trip to Montreal and Ottawa, the happy couple are now residing in the Testa Villa Apartment, Albert Street South, Stouffville.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brown, following their marriage in the Stouffville Missionary Church. The bride is the former Judy Colleen Wilkinson, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. D. J. Wilkinson, Winlane Drive, Stouffville.

Election Night
Election Night, to select the 1974 executive of the Whitechurch-Stouffville Ratepayers' Association, will be held Monday, March 18, at 7:30 p.m., in the Centennial Centre, Ballantrac.

Times change
Yes, sir, commented a spectator at the OMHA Pee-wee game in the Arena, Friday, 'hockey's sure come a long way since the curved tree branch and frozen horse bun'.

Late Roy Ing

A kindly man

STOUFFVILLE
Rev. Jim Carder, Stouffville United Church, conducted the service, Friday, from the O'Neill Funeral Home, for Roy Ing, following his passing, March 6.
Roy Ing was born in Kwong Tung, China, 73 years ago. Following his coming to Canada, he operated a restaurant in Midland, then moved to Stouffville in 1956 to take over what was then known as Harold's Grill. Following his retirement, he took up residence in an apartment above a restaurant owned by his son, almost across the street.
Roy Ing was a kindly man, respected by all who knew him. He took a keen interest in the welfare of his family that included sons Bing of Stouffville, Hong in Guelph, Roy at Midland, a daughter, Sau Kuen in Hong Kong and ten grandchildren. His wife, Yen Au, also survives.
Roy Ing had many friends outside Stouffville, as indicated by the many floral tributes that banked the casket. Interment was in Stouffville Cemetery.

He's honest
Bert Clarkson is the custodian of the Stouffville Post Office. One evening, last week, while completing his caretaking rounds, he spotted a change purse on the floor. On checking the contents, he found a name inside. It was Mrs. Malcolm Randall, Marietta Street, Uxbridge. He also found more than that — over $52 in bills and change. He called Mrs. Randall with the 'good news' and she picked up her property at the wicket the next day.

Things you should know about starting a small business

Almost everyone dreams of owning his or her own business at one time or another. Those who decide to take the plunge frequently have their businesses fail. Statistics show that 70 percent of all new businesses fail within the first five years.

Business Tips
With so many new businesses failing, it is wise to learn as much as you can before launching your business. Top independent businessmen offer the following tips:
• Keep your expenses low.
• Know your market.
• Know how to attract new business.
• Make sure you have provided for the fringe benefits you lose with your former job (i.e. accident, hospital insurance, etc.).
• Maintain a proper set of records.
• Develop a method for collecting bills.
• Set up medical insurance and disability insurance programs for yourself and employees.
• Make provision for retirement income for yourself and employees.
• Unless you have plenty of money, avoid putting a lot of money into fixed assets such as desks, cars, trucks and typewriters.
• Compare the costs of leasing against owning.
If you are considering starting a small business, it is always a good idea to consult a lawyer. He can advise you whether you should undertake a sole proprietorship, a partnership or become incorporated either federally or under Provincial regulations administered by the Companies Division, Ontario Ministry of Consumer and Commercial Relations. A qualified accountant is also familiar with various laws involved, including relevant tax considerations, and can help in organizing the financial aspect of the business, including setting up your books correctly.

Sole Proprietorship
This is the simplest way of operating a business in Ontario. A sole proprietorship enables you to enter into business with the minimum of legal formalities subject, of course, to licences that may apply to specific types of activities such as the selling of firearms or gasoline. Many municipalities require that you pay a business tax.
In a sole proprietorship you, the owner, have sole responsibility for the operation of the business. If the business fails, you must assume total liability. You could lose your home and all personal possessions.
If, as a sole proprietor, you wish to carry on a business under a name other than your own, you must register the name with your local Registry Office in the community in which you are doing business. This also applies when you want to add a partner and company. A registration fee is required.

Partnerships
Entering into a partnership is a slightly more complicated way of starting a business in Ontario and usually involves the partners entering into a Partnership Agreement dealing with capital distribution, division of profits and rights of management. It is advisable to have a lawyer draw up the agreement. When entering into a partnership it is necessary that you and your partners sign a declaration giving names, addresses and company name. This must be filed with the local Registry Office in the community where the business will be carried on within 60 days of the formation of the partnership. Forms are available from your local Registry Office. A registration fee is required.
