Additional representation considered

STOUFFVILLE - The Town Council is now considering whether to recommend the expansion of York Regional Council.

The question has come up due to a request from the Town of Markham that they be given additional representation at the region due to the large increase in population in Markham since the region was formed three years ago.

Mayor Gordon Ratcliff spoke out against any restructuring. "The bigger regional council gets the more unwieldy it is. If we allow representation to go by population, I don't know where it would end."

According to the mayor, "the Region of York Act doesn't take (representation by population) into consideration at all."

Council members passed a resolution to bring up the matter for discussion at the next committee meeting.
