Secular life, religious life inseparable

By Grace Foote Powell
Gather up the fragments that remain, that nothing be lost.

John 6:12
Give us your ruling on this: are we or are we not permitted to pay taxes to the Roman Emperor? Jesus said to them, "Then pay what is due to Caesar, and pay God what is due to God."

New English Bible, Matt 22:15-22
The supreme council of the Jewish people, the Sanhedrin, not having the power to sentence a guilty person to death, tried to trap Jesus into an answer that would convict Him of treason which would serve as an excuse for handing Him over to Pilate. The Pharisees invented the plan, but did not take part in it; they sent some of their disciples along with some Herodians (supporters of Herod) to Jesus with a question in an attempt to destroy Him. The Herodians were in favor of paying taxes to the Roman Emperor. The Pharisees, at heart, were not in favor. In their hearts they believed it was unlawful to pay taxes to any power, and yet they were plotting to put Jesus to death on a charge of supporting a policy they themselves found disagreeable, hence the hypocrisy of the question.

Jesus made the questioners answer themselves by producing the tribute money, the Roman coin bearing the image of Caesar. The use of the Roman coin signified the reign of Caesar and subsequently obedience to the Roman law.

Jesus did not draw a definite line between the things of Caesar and the things of God, because the lower service of Caesar is part of the higher service of God. The secular life and religious life cannot be separated; they combine to make one complete life under God's direction and guidance.

To those who are like the Pharisees and Herodians, dishonest questioners, the answer is confusing, but to those who are sincere and thoughtful, it is instructive and illuminating.

Hard work key to youthful outlook

Mrs. Frances Stouffer spends much of her spare time crocheting for relatives and friends. She recently celebrated her 90th birthday and retains a steady hand and good eyesight necessary for making fine lace table cloths. Don Bernard

STOUFFVILLE — It was while in the hospital recovering from her fall that her career in crocheting began. She started to crochet a scarf and one of her nieces asked her to do a table cloth.

Once she was finished that, Mrs. Stouffer said that she started doing table clothes for each of her children and grandchildren.

"People see them and want one too," she said with a smile.

Crocheting requires good eyesight and a steady hand, which Mrs. Stouffer has maintained very well. She rather boasts about her eyesight.

"Sometimes I pick up the Bible and read a whole chapter without realizing I don't have my glasses on," she said.

She added that hard work is the key to her youthful outlook on life. "Work never killed anyone. I worked plenty when I was on the farm."

Mrs. Stouffer has two daughters, Helen (Mrs. Belfry Hamilton) of Stouffville and Marion (Mrs. Fred Nicely) of Ringwood. There are five grandchildren and six great grandchildren. She has one sister living, Mrs. Ada Lehman who is 94 years old.

To prove that no one is too old to be surprised, 40 relatives gathered Saturday Nov. 2 and took her completely by surprise. The party was a fitting way to celebrate such a milestone.

STOUFFVILLE — Frances Stouffer recently had one of her afghans for sale in the UCW bazaar at Stouffville United Church. That does not seem like a great achievement, however Mrs. Stouffer celebrated her 90th birthday Nov. 2.

Since she broke her hip last year Mrs. Stouffer has been crocheting to pass the time. To date she has done 30 afghans and 25 fine lace table clothes. They have been mostly for friends and relatives.

Mrs. Stouffer started life as Frances B. Hoover, daughter of Samuel B. Hoover of Dickson's Hill. She attended school there then took her turn working on the farm.

In 1909 she married David L. Stouffer. They farmed what later became Dadson Farms and sold it to the Rodanz family in 1939 and moved to Stouffville, where they lived in a house on Main St. W. Mr. Stouffer bought the Massey Harris implement and tractor dealership in the village and ran that until he went into the building field.

Mr. Stouffer died five years ago, but Mrs. Stouffer stayed on in the house by herself. A fall last year and a broken hip ended her independence and she now lives with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Belfry Hamilton of Harold St.

More important editing to be done

By Rev. Howard Minaker

Sometime ago the editorial department of a large city daily admitted that they discarded as much material as they printed.

This is called editing. Eliminating the irrelevant and unnecessary material. The worth of the material must be decided by the editor.

The process of elimination is around us everywhere. Our bodies each day in their natural process eliminate waste in the air we breathe, the water we drink and food we eat.

Could we imagine our body reversing the process and destroying the good and keeping the waste.

God our creator has so set the controls of the human body that this reversal is impossible. However humanity seems to be bent on self destruction. Our roads department must erect physical barricades to keep motorists from driving in front of a train. Our policemen must be constantly vigilant to control hazardous drivers who take a chance with their own lives and the lives of others.

Thousands of smokers puff their way persistently toward lung cancer. There is however a more important editing to be done.

It has to do not with this life only but also the life to come. I would rather discard health, wealth, comfort, friends, yes and even life itself than ever miss heaven and find my place in hell. Nothing can ever compensate were one to lose their soul.

From Heaven's portals of light to earth's black night came God's Son Jesus Christ, The Prince for the pauper, the Just for the unjust, the creator for the creature that we might be saved, what a glorious message.

Some will tell you this card costs you $2.50 a month.

Surprise!

Sure you pay for a Commerce Key Account. But with what you pay now for personal cheques alone, it's not going to be any $2.50 extra.

I think of it. If you write just ten personal cheques a month and a cheque you can spend $1.40 right there. So the most you'd possibly pay more for a Key Account would be $1.40.

And that soon pays for itself in benefits. Take Bankplan Loans. With a Key Account, the Commerce gives you preferred rates on most consumer loans.

Travellers' Cheques. With a Commerce Key Account, you'll never pay a service charge to get them.

You'll never be charged for O'Canada or our new Key Account personalized cheques, using our 24-Hour Cash Dispensers; paying utility bills; purchasing money orders or domestic drafts.

A Key Account gets you a Commerce Charge Card and overdraft protection. Plus an identification card that lets you cash your personal cheque, instantly, at any of more than 1600 Commerce branches in Canada.

Surprised? Many are. But then, in the course of an average month, it's even more surprising how many times the need for a Key Account pops up.
