

Children's play at Latcham Hall

STOUFFVILLE — Jan. 10-11 mark the dates for a Children's Play to be held at Latcham Hall, Stouffville.

Entitled "Harry and the Skinbonians," it promises everything that children love: cute little folk called Skinbonians, a King, a Prince, Music, Fun and of course a bad, bad Witch. The audience got a chance to be a part of the whole production.

Skinbonians are like little leprechauns of fairies and the whole concept is the brainchild of Stouffville solicitor Gord Ness.

Thanks to the assistance of the Kinsmen and the Community Centre of Stouffville, admission for children is only 25c — tickets to be purchased prior to each performance at Latcham Hall.

Stouffville students are part of the cast and are helping to make posters to be displayed by local merchants.

Performance times are 7 p.m. Friday, Jan. 10 and 1 p.m. and 4 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 11.

Gregory Sutton, four, seems to be leading the life of Riley while mom does all the work. Joan Sutton of Hawthorne Ave. is pushing the carriage accompanied by her sister Julie Sutton. Inside the carriage, safely hidden from view, is nine-month-old Kevin. — John Montgomery
