Alternative food shopping offered at Sales Barn

STOUFFVILLE — A small shop in Stouffville is attracting an increasing number of food shoppers each week. The family-run business, owned by Toronto wholesale dealer Vince Pulle, opens its doors each Saturday at the Stouffville Sales Barn.

Mr. Pulle told The Tribune he has seen a 25 per cent rise in business since they opened a year and a half ago.

The emphasis in the store tends to be on easily-stored goods requiring little processing such as raisins, nuts, dried fruits, beans, peas and flour. In addition, instead of packaging, shoppers scoop their purchases into brown paper bags which are weighed and priced individually.

All in all, the cost of some foods may be 20 to 25 per cent less than supermarket prices. The penalty for the lower prices is less variety in most goods and less sophisticated store. Only the bare essentials are present: large sacks and boxes of goods acquired wholesale, and rude wooden shelves and bins.

Apparently a substantial number of shoppers don't mind the limitations and a second store is to be opened inside the Sales Barn itself "in a couple months," according to Mr. Pulle.

While less variety is available in frozen or canned items, shoppers can choose among crushed, chopped, shelled or unshelled nuts as well as, for example, rice, flour, corn flour, soya flour, whole wheat flour, buckwheat flour, bread flour, pastry flour and wheat germ flour. Most goods sold are unbleached and stoneground.

Many of the goods are also sold in health food stores, but the difference comes in the price tags. Sesame Snaps are sold for up to 25 cents each in health food stores, the treats in the Sales Barn store figure out to 12 cents apiece. The cost of "natural" peanut butter comes out to less per pound than the supermarket cost for processed peanut butter, and items such as rolled oats and icing sugar cost considerably less per pound.

Through the week, Mr. Pulle runs the Johnvince wholesale grocery company in Toronto.

The weekend store is located indoors at the Sales Barn in one of the outer buildings. Besides being open only once a week, another disadvantage of the store, naturally, might be having to wait briefly to have goods weighed and priced.

Apparently, however many shoppers appear willing to do so.

Toronto wholesale dealer Vince Pulle opens shop weekly at the Stouffville Sales Barn. Included there are dried fruits, nuts, flour, and a variety of peas and beans, and other items, sold at bargain prices. The shop has greatly increased in popularity since its opening a year and a half ago.

Voice of Bethel Genuineness of lazy christians questioned

By REV. HOWARD MINAKER
In the past short while we have realized just a small bit of God's ability to "turn on the heat".

God, who lets His sun shine on the just and the unjust, has measuring scales greater than we can ever understand. So great is their capacity that the earth is counted as nothing and its inhabitants as less than nothing. So exact are these scales that they do not miss even a hair of our head.

His listening devices are such that they grasp the faintest prayer and do not fail to record every idle word.

I am disturbed when I hear people who consider themselves Christians say, "It is just too hot to go to church." Surely this is not the same religion that came to us from the cross where its Founder opened the door to Heaven's glory through His open wounds. Can this be the church that, in spite of dungeon, fire and sword, still lives? Can this be the same group that faced the lions in the coliseum with a song? Is this the church that Roman might and torture could not erase?

I question the genuineness of Christians who must be lured to the place of worship by entertainment, short sermons, cushioned pews and cool, cool comfort.

The television service, designed to minister to the shut-in and the unbeliever is the best effort many cold-hearted, lazy Christ professors will offer to the Master.

Affluence, compromise or popular trend cannot change the requirements of Jesus stated in these words, "And whosoever doth not bear his cross, and come after me cannot be my disciple."

From The Living Bible
When it was Esther's turn to go to the king, she accepted the advice of Hegai, the eunuch in charge of the harem, dressing according to his instructions. And all the other girls exclaimed with delight when they saw her. So Esther was taken to the palace of the king in January of the seventh year of his reign. Well, the kind loved Esther more than any of the other girls. He was so delighted with her that he set the royal crown on her head and declared her queen instead of Vashti. Esther 2:15-17

United Church tent at Plowing Match

OSHAWA — When the International Plowing Match begins this fall there will be a "tent city" to provide for all the requirements of participants and spectators alike, up to and including their spiritual needs.

A United Church tent, with "a look at life theme" showing the church's place here and abroad, will be erected. Slides will be used to show the work of the church and in addition balloons and a parade float are planned.

An Oshawa Presbytery committee has been meeting for over a year, planning church representation at the match which is one of the top farm oriented events in Ontario.

The tent is supplied by the Boy Scouts and will be decorated with banners and posters chosen in a contest sponsored by the committee.

Organizers are making arrangements to have missionaries and church officials on hand part of the time and five area clergy will attend the display each day.

The church tent program is financially supported by York, Peterboro, Lindsay and Oshawa Presbyteries, each of which is represented on the committee.

The plowing match is being held just north of Oshawa and runs from Sept. 23 to 27.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Writer agrees with boat ban

Dear Sir:
I heartily agree with your proposal that motor boats be banned on Musselman's Lake.

We have a cottage on a small lake (a little bigger than Musselman's) and know the annoyance caused by half-wits who roar around the lake in huge power boats going nowhere, wasting fuel and disturbing cottagers and people on the lake in sensible boats.

Some of these fast boats can go from one end of our lake to the other in about three minutes.

Crazy kids race them around turning them on their ends at high speeds and creating a menace to other boaters. There should be legislation limiting the horsepower of motor boats on small lakes.

Harry Bowes endorsed

Dear Sir:
We are pleased to learn that Harry Bowes is willing to be nominated as a candidate to replace Colin Barrett if the local school board decides to hold an election. Should the board's decision be appointment, we are sure that Harry Bowes would be a worthy and responsible representative of this area.
