The cow competed with the grand champion from last year among others. A cash prize and rosette were presented as awards. "Aleah" was bred by Bill Yates, formerly of Stouffville and now of Beaverton.

Full amount goes back to Latcham
GOODWOOD — About $10,000 will be turned over to the Goodwood park association by Uxbridge council to be used for recreational needs. The money had originally been raised in Goodwood as an ice surface fund.
Also, council reworded an earlier motion concerning the return of $150,000 that had been slated for an ice arena to the Arthur Latcham Foundation. Earlier, council was withholding from the funds the cost of starting to grade a new ball field, but will now return the whole sum.
The town may retain any interest collected on the money.

Growth rate points to Unionville school

YORK CITY — A detailed report on construction of a proposed board high school in Unionville will be submitted to trustees late next month.
Under current normal growth, the number of high school students from the Unionville area will jump from 534 this year to 675 by 1979, a report presented to trustees last week indicated.
The figures cited in the report do not include any major allowance for subdivision growth in Unionville, trustees were told.
Development of the Unionville sewage treatment plant, approval of a series of subdivision plans for Unionville and launching of the Milliken OHAP project could bolster the number of students attending the proposed high school, the report stated.

Birthday party held

On Sunday, Sept. 21, Rev. Cecil Rosenburger of Gormley Missionary Church conducted the evening worship service.

Our Home Pastor, Rev. William Vander Bent has been on vacation during most of the summer and autumn. This past week we have been pleased to have Rev. James Cober of Heise Hill Church assist with the Bible Study and visitation.

Wednesday afternoon Sept. 24, was the monthly birthday party for those Residents who celebrated a birthday during the month of September. Those celebrating with their friends and relatives included: Mr. Jacob Reesor; Mr. Arthur Storry; Miss Elizabeth Williamson; Mr. James Culham; Mrs. Mary Orchard; Mrs. Ada Fretz; Mrs. Ruby Pickett; Miss Martha Patton and Mr. George Ball.

Mr. John Humphrey presented the Thursday evening program on Sept. 25. He talked of Problems of the Elderly Living in the North, and showed slides on the same subject.

The Sunday evening service was conducted in the Parkview Home auditorium on Sept. 28, by Rev. John Hamilton of Stouffville Missionary Church. Members of the community are welcome to attend these weekly services at 6:15 p.m.

Visitors to Parkview during the past week have included: Mr. and Mrs. Merle Lawery of Panama City, Florida for Mr. George Ball; Bernice and George Charles of Aurora for Mrs. M. Hamilton and Mrs. Ida Leary; Ruth and Alvin Smith of Stayner for Mrs. Pugh and Mrs. Stotesbury; Douglas Thom and Edythe Thom of Toronto and Ottawa for Mrs. Sarah Grubin; George and Anna Reesor of Pickering for Mae Deacon; Mr. Jack McBride for Mrs. Mabel McBride; Marion and Allan Taylor of Oshawa for Mrs. Bella Staley; Margaret and Allan Cosburn for Henry Cosburn.

Farm Report

Corn silage poses problem this fall

By A.A. WALL
Agricultural Representative
Getting corn silage in is turning out to be quite a challenge this fall. The early fields, mature around the first of September, could go right in. But the tall, late hybrids had to wait for frost to get the moisture level down, and then wet weather slows down the whole operation.

Our research shows that corn with heat unit ratings of from 2700 to 2900 here in York, will end up with just as much dry matter yield as late "silage" hybrids. The high moisture levels in late corn lowers feed value and delays harvest.

Feed value depends entirely on the quantity of dry matter. Early mature corn will be equal in digestibility with late, juicy, softer corn. Cattle will get between 65 and 70 per cent of the feed value that's there, regardless of maturity.

This point of digestibility is supported by the trend these days to feeding beef cattle whole corn. In feeding trials at Elora, there was no significant difference in feeding corn whole or rolled. The research workers there had an interesting time picking out the kernels that passed through cattle on whole corn and on rolled corn. For both groups, the amount was less than one percent.

Corn silage is great for keeping feed costs low, but it's at its best only when it is properly supplemented. This doesn't always mean adding more concentrate. Heavy beef cattle, over 900 lbs. for example, on good corn silage, don't need extra protein. Minerals should be added, but the big cattle get adequate protein from their big serving of silage.

A good feeding program can do a lot for livestock performance and costs. A feed test on hay and silage is a good place to start, with feeding rates and supplements based on it. Tests can be arranged through our office.
