Christian school meeting

Family is education centre

STOUFFVILLE — Education should move out of the hands of the state and into the hands of the parents, a meeting of potential supporters of a Christian School in Stouffville were told last Thursday.

Main speaker to the group, which met at the Stouffville Missionary Church, was Dr. Daniel Edminson of The People's Church, Toronto. The People's Church itself operates a highly successful Christian school.

"God gave responsibility for education to the family," Dr. Edminson said. "That has never been relinquished building committees. The target date for opening a Christian school in Stouffville now stands at September, 1976. The school would be designed to serve children in about a 15-mile radius of Stouffville.

Mr. Barker told The Tribune a "formational meeting" for a parents' association for the school would be held soon.

In his speech, Dr. Edminson told the group that Christian schools are very much on the increase in North America, with 100 coming into being yearly in the U.S. He argued that "as the classroom goes, so goes the nation," and that

Other topics would be left up to the individual churches to teach, he said.

Dr. Edminson asserted that "secularism has become the religion" in public education and that modern education founders Horace Mann and John Dewey were, respectively, a Unitarian and "an outspoken atheist."

He attacked both "progressive" and "open" education, saying a more structured system was needed.

As to the argument that a Christian school would be "sheltering them in an unreal atmosphere," Dr. Edminson said "I agree that we are and I say that we should."

He said that three hours a week in a "Bible-believing church," was "not enough to train our young people to meet a world that's far away from God and going further away."

After the address, steering committee member Rev. Paul Hope of Churchill Baptist Church told the group that doctrinally, the school would emphasize "those things we can agree on that are very clear."

Master breaks this tyrant's chains

By HOWARD E. MINAKER

A recent article by a large Ontario daily expressed concern over the increasing carnage from auto fatalities. While in Ontario about 145 persons per year are murdered by various violent means, close to 2,000 were killed in motor accidents.

Close to half of this staggering figure is reported to be as a result of the drinking driver. Various deterrents or legislation to stop this human slaughter, have been for the most part ineffective.

While thousands of dollars and man hours are spent searching out drugs and drug pushers, King Alcohol reigns undisturbed.

Many of his opposers can rarely go to a restaurant without being offered a taste of his delicacies. His faithful advertisers extol his virtues to those who are uninitiated. On the other side of the picture, his faithful subjects stagger in loneliness, poverty and despair, being driven by his merciless whip to more indulgence. Many others of his tortured slaves look for help from hospitals, churches and institutions and the staggering bill for attempted rehabilitation is colossal.

Only ones who have not yet come under his total power are used to advertise for him. As soon as his fetters are securely fastened, his victim is hustled away to his prison house of despair and hopelessness.

In observing for many years his actions, I have not found one redeeming feature. I can say no good word for him. I shun him like I would smallpox. I warn of his treachery and repeatedly endeavour to turn
