Snowmobiles can be great fun.

This is what Ontario is doing to help make sure they're safe fun.

If you buy a new snowmobile, the dealer must register it on your behalf within six days of the sale.

The number of your Registration Certificate must be attached to, or painted on, both sides of your snowmobile's hood in numbers 2" to 3" high, and must contrast with your snowmobile's colour to be easily seen.

Your permit will be affixed to your Registration Certificate and you will be given two adhesive stickers to affix to your snowmobile's hood according to directions.

That's all there is to it.

Do not drive your snowmobile anywhere (except on your own property) unless it has been registered and you have a permit.

Make certain that you know and observe all operating rules and safety regulations for snowmobiles and be sure to check local by-laws in the municipality where you use your snowmobile.

Canada Strike Capital

Canada's reputation as being the strike capital of the world, is apparently reaching all continents. John Nolan of Stouffville who is possibly the community's most widely-travelled citizen reports that he learned of our post office strike in Nairobi, Africa. He says that wherever he travels, South America, Africa, Europe, he finds that Canada is pictured as the most strike-ridden country. This fact is puzzling in these foreign countries who know that our citizens are close to being the most well-to-do in the world. Mr. Nolan, communicating by phone from London, England, says that the people there, look with disbelief on what various groups are asking in wage increase. Food prices, housing etc. in Britain, are about on a par with those in Canada, but wages are little more than half the Canadian rates.
