Letters to the Editor

Further seat belt letter
Dear Sir:
With reference to Mr. Carter's reply to my reply re seat belts, I would like to make the following comments.
During a rather lengthy telephone conversation with Mr. Carter, I brought out the point that there are two aspects involved here:
1) The compulsory seat belt legislation
2) The question of whether or not seat belts save lives.
I also stated that our program at Christ Church will deal with Number 2 and is intended to present facts and figures which we hope will convince people that seat belts will save lives. We do not intend to get into a political argument re the legislation, as the gentleman we have coming is a civil servant and not one from the legislature.
I invited Mr. Carter and his friends to come, listen and discuss the facts — to use or not to use seat belts — in order that we might convince them it is to their advantage to buckle up regardless of whether they are in favour of the law or not.
I would like to make the following point clear that there will not be anyone at this meeting to accept Mr. Carter's petitions, as we intend to present only the seat belt question as opposed to the compulsory legislation.

High cost criticized
Dear Sir:
According to federal Transport Minister Otto Lang, the federal government spent almost $250,000 on the four-day opening of Montreal's Mirabel International Airport.
Inflation continues but Canadian taxpayers are being wrestled to the ground.

Important 'big' game lacks lasting value

By HOWARD E. MINAKER
One of two Russian hockey teams is licking its wounds not to mention its pride as a result of the humiliating defeat dished out to them by the Buffalo Sabres.
Doubtless many unhappy visions will dance before their eyes as they recall their humbling encounter with this team. Russian pride does not accept defeat or failure lightly. I expect desperate effort will be made to regain lost prestige.
While hundreds of millions of people will be talking about this game, the funny thing is it really isn't that important at all.
It won't change too much on earth, and Heaven is unimpressed. About the only record in Heaven will be the desecration of the Lord's day for pleasure instead of worship.
Let us follow one person from this game into eternity. Here stands a fan before the judgement bar of God. The question is asked, "What did you do with my Son the Lord Jesus Christ while you were on earth"? Did you accept Him as your personal Saviour or did you reject Him?
Could one even imagine this person saying "Well Lord I watched the Buffalo Sabres beat the Russians I shouted, gave them a standing ovation and threw my hat into the air"? I think not.
So many things considered important on earth are fleeting, perishing and dissolving without enduring value. How many news reporters would even write about the numbers of sinners that repent of their sins and are cleansed by the blood of Christ, yet Jesus said the angels of God and heaven rejoice over even one sinner that repents of his sins. How sincere then can we pray, "Thy will be done in earth as it is in Heaven"?

Ken Wallace, well-known Canadian Gospel music singer, presents an evening of inspiration this coming Sunday at Stouffville Pentecostal Church. Mr. Wallace has appeared on Global TV's "Gospel Singin' Time" and has travelled widely to sing in concerts, fairs, schools, churches and to service clubs. The program Sunday is underway at 7 p.m.

Bus tour delightful for senior citizens

On Monday evening the residents took a bus tour to view the Christmas Lights. They travelled to Newmarket and then on to the Toronto area, the weather co-operated beautifully.
On Tuesday afternoon the men participated in a prayer group. We would like to thank Glen Smith for his interest and leadership.
On Friday evening, the residents viewed the film "Canadian Forest Lumbering in Canada." The Sunday evening service was conducted by Rev. Paul Martin of the Wideman Mennonite Church.
Our readers will be interested to know that Sam Doner, one of our residents who is 89 and enjoys working in the woodworking shop, sold $340, worth of his hand-crafts during 1975. Mr. Doner is in a wheelchair, but is able to work in the shop almost every day.
Visitors to our home included: Helen Johnston of Queensville and Mr. Derguson of Peterborough were in to visit Mrs. Millie Wilson. M. Summerfeldt of Campbellford visited Miss Nellie Bond, Harold, Audrey and Jeff Good of St. Lambert, Quebec, visited with Mr. Edwin

Mayor unhappy with Durham region budget

Looking forward to the future, Dr. Putterbough said he "wanted to see some growth" in the township. He said that they had gotten the draft of the regional official plan changed to the point that it now "reflects the feeling of this council," and allows some growth.
Another major local issue is a sewage disposal plant in the works. The ability of the township to raise the necessary funds for building it, Dr. Putterbough said, largely depends on the size of tax increases by the board of education.
On the regional assessment, the mayor said Uxbridge's lawyers had found "proof beyond a shadow of a doubt" that the township is being assessed too high.
"We're the only ones who have decided, 'the hell to this, we're being overcharged,'" he said. The mayor added that if the regional sewer rates go through, Uxbridge would likely drop the case since the regional rate would help even up the levies.

Uxbridge gained a reputation as a scrappy municipality in another case last year, fighting for the right to regulate gravel pits within the municipality all the way to the Supreme Court of Canada — and winning.
As a result of the case, Uxbridge "is now represented on a committee to study the whole aggregate industry across the province," Dr. Putterbough said.
In other comments on the past year, the mayor said he was pleased that local administration costs for the township are "looking very very good." They will be well below budget estimates, he said.
He attributed part of the drop in costs to the efficiency gained from moving into a new municipal office building on Bascom St. in March.
Another major change involved "internal organization," Dr. Putterbough said. "It has changed radically and was certainly necessary."

Writer honored

PICKERING — Robert Miller of Brougham will be among those honored by Pickering Council with a Civic Recognition ring.
Council also will honor Mr. Miller with a banquet, it was decided last week.
Mr. Miller is former director of the Pickering Museum in Brougham, and was one of the founders of the museum.
He also wrote a history of the Brougham area concerning the earliest settlers to the present.
