College Park Ladies Discussion Group

These neighbors get together

STOUFFVILLE — A frequent complaint about new housing developments is that they are unfriendly places, but neighbors in the new College Park subdivision are doing something to break that trend.

Every other week a group, known as the College Park Ladies Discussion Group, meets together "to get to know each other and to learn things from it," says organizer Udelle Wood.

The women have been hearing speakers, viewing films and helping one another with handicrafts, among other activities.

Mrs. Wood, who moved to the subdivision from Scarborough, said she had met with a similar group at her previous home.

The College Park group, which now boasts 24 members, commenced in January. Meetings are regularly held in Mrs. Wood's home.

Mrs. Wood feels the get-togethers help housewives "from getting that cooped-up feeling," and helps establish ties among neighbors.
