Eulah Williamson, the former Eulah Brillinger was honoured last Saturday night for her 25 years of service at Ontario Hydro in Markham. The dinner was also a retirement party as she finishes at the Hydro office the end of the month.

Eulah Williamson retiring

MARKHAM — Few employees can boast a record of 25 years continuous service with one firm. One of the few to surpass this milestone is Eulah Williamson, Elm Street, Markham. She joined the office staff of Ontario Hydro in 1951 and, last October, was presented with a quarter-century pin and certificate. Mrs. Williamson is the former Eulah Brillinger of Stouffville. Her father, Harry Brillinger resides in the Testa Villa apartments. On Saturday evening, she was honored once again — a gathering at Cedarbrae Golf and Country Club, Steeles Avenue, Scarborough, to mark her planned retirement at the end of this month. Area manager Cy Richardson acted as Master of Ceremonies for the evening, during which Eulah was presented with a pair of oil paintings. She attended with feelings of mixed emotions; satisfaction with a job well done and regret at severing a relationship she had known so long. Eulah still recalls how it all started. "We (husband John and myself) were going to a ball game with Howdie (Howard) Graham," she remembered. I asked him if they needed any office help at Hydro. His reply was "what does it matter, you'd only stay a few months anyway". Regardless, an interview was arranged and the rest is history. Any memorable experiences? Eulah was asked. No, she was never called out in an emergency to repair a downed power line or even replace a bulb in a street light. But on one occasion, she assisted in the arrest of two cable thieves. That, and other incidents are included in 25 years of memories. Most memorable of all, however, was the gathering, Saturday night, "Eulah Williamson Night".

Durham OPP phase out in doubt

DURHAM — The Durham Regional Police Commission is still waiting for word from the Solicitor General's office regarding the phasing out of OPP services in Durham region. The commission met with the minister last December to discuss an extension of the April 1 deadline and had been assured of a three-year phasing-in period, but with no word from the province, this now seems in doubt. Commissioners are especially concerned since an arbitration agreement with the Durham Police Force calls for two-man cruisers between the hours of 4 p.m. and 4 a.m. starting May 1. This means that between 50 and 55 new police officers would have to be hired and trained between now and May. "It takes three months just to train an officer, not to mention the time it takes to recruit and screen applicants." He also estimates that it would cost somewhere in the neighborhood of $952,000 for the additional men the double manning of cruisers would require. To save some of the costs, Durham has painted 14 cruisers yellow and designated them as traffic vehicles. These only require one-man patrols, and reduce the cost of double manning to approximately $400,000.

Trustees raise mileage allowance

AURORA — In a narrow 11-9 recorded vote here Monday night, York Region public school trustees upped their travel allowance to 18 cents per mile. The motion to increase the allowance from 10 cents per mile drew opposition from Markham trustee Bob McMonagle. Noting that one-third of a trustee's honorarium is designed to cover expenses, Mr. McMonagle said the move would be out of line. "It's inappropriate at this time when we ask other groups to cut back or hold the line," he added.

Stouffville camera club holds successful meeting

STOUFFVILLE — Thirty-five people attended the very successful initial Stouffville Centennial Camera Club meeting, held on January 13 at George Ross Photo Studio. The group consisted of young citizens to young senior citizens, both men and women, from novice shutter bugs to polished pros. Selected to run the Camera Club were: John Lord, President; Keith Leach, Vice-President; Claude Kerr, Treasurer; Dave Beckett, Program Chairman; and Jerry Mucci, Telephone Committee Chairman. Interest shown at this meeting proves the need

'Mickey Mouse' courses

AURORA — Wording of a motion encouraging emphasis on core curriculum subjects drew fire from York's secondary school teachers Monday night. Proposed by Richmond Hill trustee Eric Baker, the motion included the phrase "... to ensure that this system does not offer so-called 'Mickey Mouse' courses." In a position paper presented to trustees, Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation District 11 called for the board to reject the proposal, which it termed disturbing. The federation said the wording of the motion could "reinforce or encourage" attitudes detrimental to the education system in York. Following presentation of the position paper, which was not debated publicly, Mr. Baker reworded the proposal to exclude the controversial phrase. The motion, which calls for curriculum planners to re-evaluate all core subjects and for guidance counsellors to advise students entry into non core subjects could require evidence of ambition and ability, was referred to the board's program committee.
