

James Ryan, owner of Tara Kennels on the Gormley Alderwood, sits besides his giant Irish wolfhound named Cu Cullain — after an Irish legend. Mr. Ryan said the Irish wolfhound breed is the biggest type of dog in the world, and with the large open mouth he has, no-one is going to argue.

Tara Kennels operator

His lifetime work is to help animals

By Keith Bolender

Any person that has worked with animals is aware of the ever constant threat of an outbreak of rabies; and of the harm it can cause to animals and humans alike.

And unfortunately for James Ryan, of Tara Kennels on the Gormley Sideroad, he has to deal once again with the threat following the discovery of a rabid cat in Unionville.

The cat was brought to Mr. Ryan, who has a quarantined section for suspected rabid animals, last week after the cat had bitten the owner, his wife, and their dog. The cat died last Friday and its brain was sent away for analysis which proved that it was rabid. The dog is still in quarantine and Mr. Ryan expects that it too is rabid.

"We don't know what started it," Mr. Ryan commented, "although there has been a dead fox that was rabid found in the area, the Carleton Rd. subdivision."

Mr. Ryan is asking dog owners to not let the dog outside on its own. He said that if someone is with a dog that is bitten, then at least the dog can be checked out for rabies before it is too late.

"The symptoms of rabies sometimes take a long time, and if no one has seen a dog being bitten, then there is no way they can have the dog checked. This is a very serious situation we have in Unionville and it can spread rapidly unless the animals have protection in the form of rabies shots."

Unfortunately, though, the shots only give about 90 per cent protection; there is no 100 per cent one. In most cases this is sufficient, but that rabid cat had its shots, so you can never be sure," he said.

Besides trying to curb the spread of rabies, Mr. Ryan, who has run the kennel for 16 years, also offers many other animal services.

One of the most beneficial of his programs, and one he has organized himself, is the 24 hour accident pickup service.

Mr. Ryan explained the service by pointing out that in the past whenever an animal was hit by a car the police had no choice but to shoot it. Now, however, whenever an accident occurs, the police will call Mr. Ryan who will pick up the injured animal and take it to the clinic in Stouffville or Thornhill.

"The people who run the clinic in Stouffville are the only ones who will get out of bed at night to help injured animals," Mr. Ryan commented.

If the owner isn't found then Mr. Ryan will foot the bill. He also said that when the program first started a few years ago he averaged about one call every two weeks with over half of the owners unlocated. Now, however, the calls are far more often because there are more people in the area, faster cars and faster highways.

However, when an owner does care enough for his pet to get it back from Mr. Ryan, "the thrill of seeing the reunion is all the payment I need. I feel that saving the animal was really worth it and that's a good feeling."

Returning the serious problem of rabies, Mr. Ryan was once bitten by a rabid cat, stated that his rabie isolation unit has been set up for the health department and that any animal that bites a human is isolated for 14 days. The types of animals in the unit vary from mice to horses to skunks, muskrats, foxes and dogs and cats.

One area that Mr. Ryan would like to see corrected is in the misdirected intentions of some people who try to help injured animals. He said that anyone coming across an injured animal should report it to the police or to him, and not try and help it.

He illustrated an incident to point out how some people's intentions can do more harm than good.

"A dog was hit by a car and the dog suffered a broken back. In a case like that there is no way we can save the dog, he has to be put to sleep. But what happened was the man who hit the dog tried to remove it and the dog bit him. So the man took off in his car but another man following him also stopped, tried to remove the dog, and was also bitten. We've got the dog now, we have to hold him in isolation for 14 days to see if he has rabies. The dog is in agony from his broken back and there is nothing we can do. If either man would have called us none of this would have happened."

Mr. Ryan pointed out that this was an isolated incident, and that for the most part people in the area are good pet owners.

He did, however, have a few pointers on how a person could become a better pet owner. He commented that before anyone gets a pet they should consult an expert on just what owning a pet really means.

People who are planning to get a dog should especially be made aware of what it entails. They should sit down and get an estimate of how much it will cost to keep a dog. The price may stagger them. There is also an obligation to keep the animal healthy, a dog needs exercise every day.

"One of the biggest problems is when the novelty of a dog wears off, when he grows up and doesn't get the care he has been getting. People's intentions are good regarding animals, but many animals are dead on the roads today from good intentions that have never been carried out."

One way to help alleviate the situation is education, Mr. Ryan said. He used to visit schools and lecture children on pet care and he believes that every school should have a pet care and control class.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

When asked what some of his more unusual calls to help animals have been, Mr. Ryan said that he once had a call from a man regarding a cat that was crying from inside the wall of his house. We think we got there through the attic. The cat was in the kitchen wall which we had to open up to get it, we think he got there through the attic. Another time we were called at two in the morning to get rid of two raccoons that were wrecking a man's bedroom."

Another way to help alleviate the situation is education, Mr. Ryan said. He used to visit schools and lecture children on pet care and he believes that every school should have a pet care and control class.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

When asked what some of his more unusual calls to help animals have been, Mr. Ryan said that he once had a call from a man regarding a cat that was crying from inside the wall of his house. We think we got there through the attic. The cat was in the kitchen wall which we had to open up to get it, we think he got there through the attic. Another time we were called at two in the morning to get rid of two raccoons that were wrecking a man's bedroom."

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

Another area of concern is people who buy animals as Christmas or Easter gifts. Mr. Ryan firmly believes this should not be done, since after the pet is grown up the people don't know what to do with it and often just get rid of it.

</