

Three-year-old Scott Brown learns to skate by holding on to the pram piloted by his dad, Glen. They were among the hundreds of people that turned out last Sunday afternoon to enjoy the giant ice rink at the new Markham Fairgrounds on the 7th line. The family skating was preceded by an adult skating party on Saturday night and free sleigh and cutter rides and a big bonfire were also featured. Because of the large turnout, Fair Board President Alma Walker has announced that, weather permitting, there will be another skating session this weekend.
