

Our churches

Love one another

By Rev. J.L. Carder
 Stouffville United Church
 Our news media draws attention almost daily to unending violence. Defensively, we tend to deal with this grim reality by thinking people have been fighting for thousands of years — there is nothing we can do about it. It is painful to stop too long to think about the suffering of innocent people, and the injustices inflicted on those who have been displaced from their homes and countries.

Last spring a relief worker in Beirut, Lebanon said to me, "My people are suffering terribly and they cannot understand why." Hundreds of families are living in tents, make-shift huts and in the ruins of bombed-out buildings. That is a painful memory for those who have been in the Middle East recently. As a Christian, I believe that every member of the human race is a valued child of God. What then, can I do about the plight of brothers and sisters in many parts of the world who are dispossessed?

One thing I can do is support with my prayers and my rights as a citizen, the work of the United Nations. On Nov. 22, 1968 the Security Council voted unanimously in Resolution 242, "emphasizing the inadmissibility of the acquisition of territory by war and the need to work for a lasting peace in which every state in the area can live in security." In support of this resolution 100 Canadians who have some first-hand knowledge of how deeply the Muslims, Christians and Jews of the Middle East want to live together in peace, sent a recommendation to the World Council of Churches, urging the Council to act on Resolution 242 emphasizing the desperate need for a just settlement.

We can be very active through the World Council of Churches. A traveller in the Middle East sees the first hand evidence of assistance to refugee families through World Council funds and projects. Refugees who fled from their homes in South Lebanon and Israel have been assisted greatly by the United Nations and World Council workers. Those who have trade skills can purchase the tools they need with money loaned to them, interest free. Trade schools and craft classes are provided to equip young people for independence. Their own teachers are helped to set up school classes for the children in the ruins of semi-restored bombed-out buildings. "We work to enable the helped to become helpers as quickly as possible" is the basic principle of World Council Churches assistance plans. Dignity is as important as bread!

There is injustice and suffering on both sides of every conflict. There are no easy solutions to a just settlement. Christians are called to minister with compassion by the One who said, "Love one another as I have loved you." In the face of the world's suffering we can dare to care. By our prayers and our money we can share in ministering to the displaced persons of the world.

Family suffers two deaths

Two close members of the family of the late Rev. Douglas Davis have passed away in the space of a month.

Mrs. Douglas Davis has received word that Rev. Davis' 94 year-old brother Captain Richard Davis died on July 4 in Bulawayo, Rhodesia and his 90 year-old sister Gladys Davis died in London, England, August 4.

Tribune congratulated on newspaper awards

By Jennie Johnson
 Congratulations to the Tribune on winning the newspaper awards under the editorship of Mr. Montgomery. Puts this weekly in the front row.

Our Glen Major Church Ladies Auxiliary Bazaar was a wonderful success. It was a beautiful setting, a perfect day and a great crowd. A new feature this year was horse and buggy rides, very popular with both adults and the children. Our appreciation to all who attended and contributed.

Reverend Leonard O'Neill and Mrs. Mary O'Neill, Leamington and Mrs. Bruce Cullen, Toronto, were Thursday evening dinner guests with Mr. and Mrs. George Pickett.

We welcome Mr. and Mrs. David McCordic and son Phillip, who have taken up residence in the Glen.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jones, Newmarket, visited her brother, Edgar Fiss on Sunday.

On Tuesday several from the Glen dropped in for opening day of the "Creative Stop", a craft shop on Water Street in Port Perry, managed by Linda Skerratt and Mary Ann Suppelso.

Dr. and Mrs. Ross Parrott had Sunday evening dinner in Toronto with Mrs. M. Salsbury and Mrs. D'Arcy Ellis, and attended the evening service at the Timothy Eaton Memorial.

Mrs. Fred Fiss and family, and Roxanne Lidgett, Whitby, spent a holiday at Rice Lake.

Wycliffe College... celebrating 100 years of service to Canada and the world.

The Wycliffe Heritage
 Wycliffe College is an independent Anglican evangelical theological college federated with the University of Toronto. Since its founding, in 1877, Wycliffe has trained a large company of men and women for Christian service, including 35 bishops of the Anglican communion and one Primate of Canada.

In the College's early years, many graduates carried the Gospel to the Canadian West, the Arctic and a number of overseas fields, especially the Orient. Today, Wycliffe continues to display a strong commitment to Canadian and foreign missionary activities, with graduates active in the ordained ministry, teaching, social work and related service throughout the world.

The beginning of Wycliffe's second century represents the start of a new chapter in its history. There is strong evidence of widespread support for the College in the Church at large, to an extent not known for many years. Despite much higher academic standards, enrollment is now larger than at any time since before World War II.

It is appropriate, therefore, that in this, Wycliffe's centennial year, the College and its constituency rededicate themselves to even greater efforts on behalf of God and the Church.

In the words of the present Archbishop of Canterbury, himself formerly a professor at Wycliffe, the College is "producing intelligent Christians with an infectious faith...not only for the Church itself but for society as a whole."

Opportunities for Study & Service
 Wycliffe College's primary purpose is to prepare candidates academically, professionally and spiritually for the Anglican Ministry. It also offers theological training for related Christian service, with facilities and courses open to members of all denominations. The College is a member of the Toronto School of Theology, composed of the Anglican, Baptist, Presbyterian, Roman Catholic and United Church colleges in the Toronto area. Courses stress the Bible and basic Christian doctrine:

- The Master of Divinity course combines academic and practical training for the ordained ministry.
- The Master of Religion course prepares people for other forms of Christian service.
- The Licentiate in Theology course is designed for a limited number of mature students who lack a university degree.
- Advanced degree studies lead to Master of Theology, Doctor of Theology, M.A. and Ph.D. degrees.
- The Lay School of Theology is the evening division, aimed chiefly at an enriched Christian service by the laity. Branch campuses are now operating in a number of Canadian communities.

The Second Century Fund
 Under the dynamic leadership of its principal, Dr. Reg Stackhouse, Wycliffe College is now establishing new standards of academic excellence.

To carry out this revitalization, Wycliffe requires substantial financial support from the community it serves. It has not had a major capital appeal in 45 years.

Funds are now being sought for the restoration of the Wycliffe buildings, for the endowment of two professorships in honour of Dr. Ramsay Armitage and Bishops Heber and Frederick Wilkinson, and for updating the College Library.

To accomplish these ends, the target amount to be raised by the Second Century Fund has been set at $2 million. Meeting this goal is essential if Wycliffe is to remain in the forefront of Christian education and match, in its second century, the achievements of its first 100 years.

Support is being sought from foundations, corporations, parishes and individuals. Your participation is warmly invited.

If you would like to receive additional information about Wycliffe College or the Second Century Fund, wish to make a contribution to the Fund, or seek enrollment in the College, write to: The Principal, Wycliffe College, 5 Hoskin Avenue, Toronto, Ontario M5S 1H7
