

Reside at Unionville

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bishop are pictured here following their marriage, Aug. 16 at the Stouffville United Church. Mrs. Bishop is the former Marjorie Davidson, mother of Mrs. Robt. Hammond, O'Brien Avenue, Stouffville. They are residing at Unionville.

Two potatoes in one
While falling short of lodging an official protest, Dave Clarry, Station Street, Markham, is not at all satisfied with the judge's decision in the Tribune-sponsored "Big Potato Contest" at Markham Fair. Mr. Clarry claims the winner, tipping the scales at 3 pounds, 5 ounces, was not one potato but rather two potatoes in one, a "freak" he called it. He feels it should have been disqualified. "You wouldn't judge a steer with two tails," he said, "you'd throw him out". It's the first time he can recall such a thing happening, although "oddities" are not unusual, he said. He suggested that only "clean" potatoes should have been eligible for a prize. Dave Clarry's entry placed second at 2 pounds, 12 1/2 ounces.

Visits friends

Kathy Perrin, formerly of Ninth Line North, Stouffville and now of Scarborough, visited Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Knights and family, Rupert Avenue.

WEDNESDAY - Macrame; Sewing (dressmaking); Crocheting; Interior Decorating and Design; Small Engines.

THURSDAY - Sewing (beginners); Cake Decorating; Art (beginners); Physical Recreation (women).

Brings back memories

Eleanor Crossen, Church Street South, is an enthusiastic lawn-bowler and curler. She was also once a good ball player. Eleanor has a picture of a Stouffville ladies team taken back in 1926. The coach was Bob Hare and players were — Ivy Saunders, Blanche Slack, Rena Hare, Marguerite Hodgins, Verna Cockerill, Elen Thorne, Nora Tarr, Vida Gowland and Mrs. Crossen, then Eleanor White. Rena Hare was the pitcher and Blanche Slack, the catcher. The club played mainly in tournaments.

Be careful!

Speaking of signs, there's one inside Aiken's Pharmacy on Main Street that says: "Love Thy Neighbor. But Don't Get Caught".

Veteran newsmen

Tribune editor, Jim Thomas, was pleased to receive a visit, last week from Ray Dalzell, Sixth Line, Whitchurch - Stouffville. Mr. Dalzell, now retired, was for 31 years, the editor - publisher of the News-Chronicle at Pawling, New York. He and his wife are leaving this month to spend the winter in Florida.

Lovely wedding

It was a lovely ceremony, Saturday, when Heather Dawn Hollinger and Keith Lazary were married in St. Patrick's Church, Markham. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norm Hollinger, Rupert Avenue. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lazary, North Street. Prior to their wedding, two showers were held, one hosted by Heather Dawn's sister, Sandy, and the other by Keith's sister, Lori.

Without the United Way, We would never be the same.

Remember your grandfather? You really didn't think about him much, until one day he wasn't around any longer. That's when you realized how much a part of your life he was. It's like that with services for seniors funded by the United Way — Senior Citizens centres and homes, social clubs. You don't notice them till they're not there.

Would all these organizations disappear if the United Way did? Of course not. But some would; and the others would have to cut back, drastically.

In recent years, the United Way has fallen short of its goal. And inflation has meant that every year each dollar we've received has done less and less. So we're falling still farther behind. This year, we must do more.

The United Way isn't a haven for freeloaders. It helps fund services used by one in four people. Your kids and mine. Your parents and mine. Your neighbours and mine. You and me.

The 1978 United Way campaign is on now. If you gave last year, please increase your giving. If you didn't give, please reconsider. And before you do either, please think about this: without the United Way, we would never be the same.
