

Facial touch-up before the big show

Much work goes on behind the scenes in preparation for a skating club carnival, and Stouffville's show, Friday and Saturday was no exception. Here, six year old Jackie Mc-

Varish, R. R. 2, Stouffville (right), receives a facial touch-up from Chris Hodgson, 14, Loretta Crescent South, Stouffville.

Urge health course

YORK REGION — York Region Chairman Bob Forhan has called for a return to compulsory health courses in area schools.

Mr. Forhan, a former teacher, made the recommendation as the regional health committee endorsed a $25,500 budget increase for the regional family planning program.

Dr. Owen Slingerland, Medical Officer of Health, says most of those seeking birth control information are 16 and 17 year olds. Twenty-five girls under 16 sought advice at regional clinics during the month of February.

Angela Hamlen, family planning supervisor, said the York County Board of Education is now preparing a sex education curriculum in which she hopes health classes will be compulsory up to and including Grade 10.

The family planning program was started in 1977. A year later, almost 2,000 inquiries were handled, an increase of 71 per cent.

In 354 tests, ninety-eight pregnancies were confirmed. Birth control information was given to 1,441 people and 756 were counselled on venereal disease and related problems.

"The clinic profile would appear to indicate that girls are becoming sexually active at a younger age," Dr. Slingerland stated. "Unfortunately," he added, "the majority of clinic attendees have been sexually active for a number of months prior to their coming, in fact, many come initially for pregnancy tests."

Family planning clinics, with branches at 22 Prospect Street in Newmarket and at Richmond Hill, offer one thing the family physician often cannot — anonymity. According to Mrs. Hamlen, some people are too embarrassed about sex matters to visit a doctor who may be a close friend of the family.
