

Pastor welcomed back-and how!

Following an absence of several years, Rev. Fred Miller was undoubtedly expecting a warm welcome at Christ Anglican Church in Stouffville, Sunday, but nothing like this. The sign, for all to see, was erected by Lloyd and Marg Britton at the west end entrance to town.

Rev. Fred Miller, formerly of Stouffville, is now the minister at Holy Trinity Anglican Church, Toronto. He took charge of the service here Sunday as part of the congregation's twelve month centennial celebrations. The sanctuary was filled for the worship, with a number present from a distance.

Parkview delegates

Attend conference

STOUFFVILLE — The 60th annual conference of the Ontario Association of Homes for the Aged, was held Sept. 16 to 19 at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto. Twenty-two educational workshops were held all related to the theme "The Future Is Now". They were selected to sensitize boards, staff and volunteers to the needs of the elderly and to discuss advances in quality care. Parkview Home in Stouffville was represented by — Joe Nighswander, Helen Baatz, Arlene Holden, Lena Barkey, Mary Reesor, Margaret Wideman, Sheila Jones, Norma Haines, Herb Diller, Ann Raymer, Arletta McDowell, Francine Cassidy, Barbara Dukeshire, George Best, Helen Berry, Judy France, Grace Ramer, Edith Byer, Rita Yake, Verna Heise and Harold Heise.

On Sept. 16, Helen Baatz, Anne Barnes, Herb Diller and Joe Nighswander had an opportunity to hear Maggie Kuhn, Convenor of the Gray Panther Movement in the United States. She spoke of the challenges facing the aged and those providing services for them.

On Sept. 17, Alice Lapeer and Margaret Wilker represented Parkview in the special session for Resident Councils. In her address to this gathering, Maggie Kuhn urged seniors to take a more active role in society and take more responsibility for their own lives.

This association represents 169 non-profit homes in Ontario, providing housing, social care, nursing and other services to more than 27,000 adults in the province.

Support refugee family

MARKHAM — St. Patrick's parish has undertaken the sponsorship of a family of seven Vietnamese refugees plus one single person, Alex McGregor confirmed this week.

The recent auction, held at the church, raised close to $12,000 and these funds will be channeled towards this project. Committee members will be endeavoring to find out as much as possible about their new 'guests' so the adjustment can go as smoothly as possible.

"Everything seems to take so long," Alex said. However, the Ministry of Immigration has assured the committee that the family should arrive within a month.

"I hope so," he said, "with so many people displaying so much enthusiasm, I want to see the result as soon as possible."
