

Service-his key

STOUFFVILLE — When Bill Dyck accepted a sales position at Neil Patrick Motors back in April 1950, he felt he wouldn't last a month.

That was 19½ years ago. Now retired and living in Markham, he retains nothing but good memories of the time spent there, particularly of Neil Patrick himself, a man he describes as "always on the job, six days a week."

This satisfied feeling is mutual. For a card, signed by Neil and presented to him at a recent retirement party reads in part: "To show our appreciation for your nineteen years of punctual, reliable, dependable and sincere service."

Although a resident of Stouffville since 1937, Bill Dyck had been farming near Cannington when he returned to town and joined the Patrick Motors' staff. His confidence was given a big boost, he remembers, when he sold a car the very first day. In the years since, he's sold cars "in the thousands", both new and used. Many have been repeat customers.

Quality plus reliability are keys to success, Bill says. First, you need a good product, dependable transportation, he points out. However, should something go wrong, the buyer must feel confident in the fact he can return to the salesman and have the problem corrected. Such is not always the case with companies whose only desire is to sell. Every auto firm depends on repeat business, Bill says, and this will occur if you treat the customer right the first time around. Because of ever-rising fuel prices, the trend is towards economy cars, Bill explains. He himself drives a '79 Pontiac LeMans. Bill Dyck intends to retain his licence. Nineteen years can't end in a single day.

Glynn 'Red' Chilvers

Humanitarian

MUSS LAKE — To folks around Musselman's Lake, Glynn Chilvers was just plain "Red". But to those who knew him best, the name didn't matter. For in life as in death, all would call him 'friend'. That's the way he was, continually offering assistance to those who needed it most. And even in the short six years he lived on Mitchell Drive, those numbers were many.

"Red" Chilvers died, Fri., Oct. 12 at the age 66, a loss that's been keenly felt by the entire community.

The deceased was a humanitarian who, in the words of a close companion "had no class but was class itself". While people were important, he also loved birds and animals. He raised rabbits, chickens and pigeons but apart from this, often took pity on strays and brought them home. On one occasion, he rescued a hawk with a broken wing.

"Red" Chilvers was born in Toronto. Before moving to the Lake, he resided on a small 30 acre property near Sunderland. For several years, he worked with his step-son, Norm Barker of Barker Roofing at Dickson's Hill. A second step-son, Don Barker, lives in Stouffville.

Besides his wife, the former Alice Draper, he also leaves one sister, Edith Watson in Toronto; an aunt, Kelso Manning, Toronto; a nephew, Beverly Chilvers, Pefferlaw; nine grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Service was held from the funeral chapel of O'Neill's Stouffville with interment, Stouffville Cemetery. Pall bearers were - Donnie Barker, Chris Barker, Norm Barker, Bobby Barker, Roy Barker and David Chilvers. Honorary pall bearers were - Roy Smith, Danny Ward, Teddy Foxwell, Murray Hindman and Ronnie Barker.

Collapse of old well

STOUFFVILLE — A well cave-in, Tuesday, on the west side of Park Drive North, has drawn attention to the possibility there could be others in town.

The excavation, about twenty feet deep, three-quarters filled with water. Bob MacAloney of the local roads' staff, said a wooden top had rotted away, revealing a large hole that no one knew existed.

The well was located beside the home of Nick and Elizabeth Kamps. Mrs. Kamps said her husband had planned to install storm windows directly above it on the weekend, but fortunately didn't start the job.

Town workmen pumped out the excavation and filled it with earth.
