

Music Mania wins standing ovations

The twentieth anniversary edition of Music Mania was extremely successful. This year as in past years, it played to large audiences, receiving standing ovations each of the three nights. The chorus of 76 voices was once again directed by Lorne Boadway.

Their voices blending together in beautiful harmony, these six ladies are (left to right) - Nancy Lewis, Mary Grant, Audrey Gibson, Elizabeth Fraser, Joan McDonald and Beulah King.

Participants in The Freedom Song were Ann Bell and Barbara Sibbick.

'Doc' Don Petrie (suspended) was the patient in an hilarious hospital pantomime that included John Foulds (right) and Frank Mellon (out of the picture completely). John has been handed a urine sample and doesn't know quite what to do with it.

She (Jean O'Neill) is about to have a baby and he (Frank Mellon) is out of gas in a scene from "the good old days" when service stations lived up to the name.
